Six States Join In Shutdown of Crude Oil Wells

70 Per Cent of Nation's Supply Off Market

PRICES ADVANCE

Small Number of Workers Temporarily Discharged

Oklahoma City — (P) — Shutdown of oil wells in six states, one of the most widespread curtailments of raw materials ever attempted, took approximately 70 per cent of the nation's crude supply from the market today.

The "shut down strike" in Oklahoma, Kansas, Arkansas, Texas, Louisiana and New Mexico had its genesis in a series of price cuts by purchasing companies. Affected were 170,832 wells producing 2,356,000 barrels daily.

State regulatory bodies had no reports of wells producing in violation of orders. Each state has statutes which permit closing wells to conserve natural resources. The "ace in the hole" is the Conally "hot oil" law prohibiting interstate shipment of oil produced in violation of state orders.

Little Unemployment
Fears there would be widespread unemployment faded as surveys and company announcements indicated less than 10 per cent of the 200,000-odd workers in the midcontinent field would be temporarily discharged. The others will be given vacations, half-pay, or will repair machinery.

Some leading producers were reported ready to start a campaign for an even higher price for crude, basing their contention on a belief refinery prices would increase within a week and there would be a scarcity of crude and refined products.

One report of strength in the refinery market came from Tulsa brokers, who said spot gasoline prices advanced a quarter to a half cent a gallon in many cases yesterday.

Consumers Unaffected
Belief that the price hike for some time was expressed by a leading broker.

A survey showed Oklahoma refineries had 10 to 12 days' supply of gasoline, Kansas and North Texas less than 10.

Indication that attempts might be made to prolong the shutdown if it did not have the desired effect on the topping price structure came from Governor Leon C. Phillips of Oklahoma.

He said that should the current action fail to halt the crisis he "would not hesitate" to call a meeting of the governors of the oil states "for the state regulatory bodies."

Higher Prices
Kilgore, Texas — (P) — East Texas independent refineries posted higher wholesale crude prices on gasoline as the oil field shutdown apparently added new strength to their markets.

J. H. Bullard of M. M. Travis refinery, oldest in the East Texas field, said his company raised prices one half a cent per gallon to nine cents. Others in the oil belt were expected to follow.

Fire Causes $75,000 Damage in Milwaukee

Milwaukee — (P) — Fire of undetermined origin roared through the Milwaukee river coal yard of the Fellens Coal and Rock company for two hours early this morning before firemen brought it under control. Company officials estimated the damage at $75,000.

A dense fog delayed discovery of the blaze until it had gained headway, and also delayed arrival of a fire boat, principal weapon of the fire department in combatting river fires.

Firemen had to shift 200 tons of coal before the blaze could be extinguished entirely.

The heavy timbered walls of the hoppers were destroyed, and a heavy crane and massive conveyors damaged.

Sun Is Always Shining Somewhere

This earth is hit each day of the year by approximately 44,000 thunderstorms, says a meteorological article. That's a lot of thunder, and it does not even include any of the storms, squalls, squaws and squalls that are strictly home-made. Fortunately, in the matters, good weather is usually brought by The Post-Crescent classified want-ads. This one gave the clouds a silver lining in a brilliant blue sky.

OKLAHOMA CLOSES OIL FIELDS

Governor Leon C. Phillips (left), of Oklahoma, after a conference with Ernest O. Thompson (right), interstate oil compact commission chairman, ordered Oklahoma oil fields shut in for 15 days after the compact surveyed a crumbling price structure in an extraordinary session at Oklahoma City. Fields in five other states have also been ordered shut down.

Bar Married Women From Green Bay Jobs

Green Bay — (P) — Married women, with the exception of teachers protected by the tenure law, were barred today from holding city jobs under a resolution passed by the Green Bay city council. Under the rule, married women now employed by the city will be dismissed at the end of 30 days.

7 Junk Dealers Get Permits to Operate in City

Council Defers Action on Belle Heights Request for Water

The perennial problem of whether to grant licenses to some Appleton junk dealers in violation of the city ordinance was before the city council in a 4-hour session last night, the last to be held in the old city hall.

Seven of the ten applicants finally were given permits, one was referred back to the committee to determine its zoning status and two others were referred back to committee for public hearings.

Granted licenses were Abe Brudnick, 609 S. Bond street; Sam Shilcraft, Reeve street, Louis Blachere, 330 W. Wisconsin avenue; Louie Fink, W. Wisconsin avenue; Louie Jacobson, city dump, near Kimberly; Simon Simonoff, 506 N. Superior street; and Harold Shlimovitz, W. Reeve street.

Public hearings will be conducted on the applications of Louis Simon, Alvin and Brewster streets, and Jacob Golper, 1319 N. Clark street, both of whom are operating in the residential district. The application of Sam Schiff, W. Wisconsin avenue, went back to the committee for investigation.

Means Their Jobs
Alderman Vanderheyden, chairman of the license committee which recommended licenses for all of the dealers, said his committee discussed all the angles and he couldn't see how the council could take away their jobs by refusing licenses.

"It is not pleasant to live next to a junk yard and some of them haven't been kept up as they might have been but all of the dealers assured us that in the future, the yards will be kept clean," Alderman Vanderheyden said. "Their finances do not permit some of them to move to the heavy manufacturing districts."

Alderman Knijff reminded the council that some of the dealers are operating in violation of the Turn to page 11 col. 1

Woman's Body Is Found in Trunk

Atlanta Authorities Trying to Trace Identity of Shipper

Atlanta, Ga. — (P) — The body of a woman, only partly clad, was found today in a trunk at the terminal railway station.

Frank Donaldson, terminal employee, said an odor attracted attention to the trunk, which arrived yesterday on a baggage check, with no identification of the shipper or an addressee, from Washington, D. C.

The body was clad in only brassiere and bloomers.

Railroad authorities said they would try to trace the identity of the shipper by determining the number of the railroad ticket against which the baggage check was issued.

Coroner Paul Donehoo went to the terminal to start an investigation.

Detective D. L. Taylor, however, expressed belief she had been killed. He reported the victim was dark, with curly hair and apparently from 30 to 35 years old.

Tracks Undermined. Trainman Is Killed

Prattville, Ala. — (P) — Death of a trainman, killed as his locomotive plunged down a water-logged fill, was charged today to torrential rainstorms which flooded this mid-state textile town to depths of five feet.

Fireman M. S. Chism was killed and Engineer E. D. (Dent) Maharry injured as tracks gave away beneath their work train locomotive, dropping it within a few yards of an underpass on the Montgomery-Prattville highway late last night.

INJURIES ARE FATAL

Burlington, Wis. — (P) — Warren Lewis, 23, of Watertown, died in a hospital here yesterday of injuries sustained Tuesday night when an automobile in which he was riding collided with a Soo line passenger train near Honey creek.

Legion Fears Attempt to Tie Up State Appropriation Will Hamper National Conclave Bid

Milwaukee — (P) — American Legion officials expressed fear today the attempts of William T. Evjue, Madison editor, to prevent the expenditure of $60,000 by the state would hamper Milwaukee's efforts to bring the veterans' annual convention here in 1941.

Evjue yesterday filed a petition with Attorney General John Martin seeking to prevent $60,000 being used to bring the legion gathering here in 1941 and the convention of the Disabled American Veterans to Green Bay next year. Fifty thousand dollars had been earmarked for the legion endeavor, and $10,000 for the Dav.

Gilman Stordock, Wisconsin department region adjutant, declared that the "state is just underwriting the corporation (the group formed to attempt to bring the legion meeting here) to insure its financial stability," and added:

"After all it is Milwaukee and Wisconsin that are asking the legion to come here in 1941. The legion is not begging for a convention city." Stordock, pointing out that it is the custom for cities and state planning to "entertain" the legion convention to make enabling appropriations added:

"This is just an advance. In 1933, Illinois appropriated money for the Chicago convention and the legislature had to enact a special law so that the state could accept the return of the full amount of the convention. In 1936, Ohio voted $50,000 for the Cleveland convention and Cleveland repaid every cent of it. The convention corporation gets more than $50,000 in registration fees and other monies."

Frank L. Greeny, of Milwaukee, new Wisconsin department commander elected at the annual convention at Oshkosh this week, said the plan of state appropriations was "nothing new" and added that control was exercised over the expenditure of the money.

Slump in Supply Of New York Milk Termed 'Serious'

Utica, N. Y. — (P) — An estimated 25 per cent shortage in New York city's milk supply today brought assertions from major distributing companies the situation was "serious."

With union members starting their third day of withholding milk from the huge New York city market for higher returns in a strike marked by the death of a picket, milk dumping and violence, Archie right, chairman of the union, said "50 per cent of the milk shed was added up on the second day," and added:

"The strike will be over within a week at the rate it is going now." Meanwhile, Mayor F. H. LaGuardia of New York city debated whether to permit milk shipments from Boston, Pittsburgh, Detroit, Philadelphia and Chicago milksheds.

Bonds for Annenberg, Aids Total $175,000

Chicago — (P) — M. L. Annenberg, his son, Walter, and two business associates surrendered to the United States marshal today, posted bonds totaling $175,000 and were released until their trial on charges of evading $5,548,384 tax, plus penalties on the publishers' income.

The Annenbergs and Arnold W. Kruse and Joseph E. Hafner were immediately to the eighth floor office of William H. McDonnell, United States marshal, in the federal courthouse. There they announced they were surrendering under the indictment returned a week ago tomorrow.

Commission Reports Increased Revenues

Madison — (P) — The public service commission said today collections of utility securities fees and motor carrier fees for the fiscal year ended July 1 were $171,360.49 higher than the previous year.

The securities fee, which increased $134,877.41, went into the state general fund, while the motor carrier fees, which rose $36,483.08, were retained by the commission to finance cost of regulation.

The commission said its total collection of truck and bus taxes in the past fiscal year was $1,196,015.07.

Germans Speed Defenses on Polish Border

Troops 'Dig in' Within 300 Feet of Poland Boundary

FRONTIER CLOSED

Believe Nazi Demands Will Include More Than Danzig

Gleiwitz, Germany — (P) — German troops moving into the upper Silesian region have "dug in" within 300 feet of Poland's border.

A 40-mile ride along the German-Polish border today showed that with the closing of "a section of the Polish border" yesterday German engineering troops have speeded up work on an already well-developed trench system.

From behind blinds 18 feet high erected in the region of the village of Schoenwald, six miles south of here came the sound of grinding concrete mixers, the chugging of Diesel engines carrying little material cars, and the sucking of ground water pumps.

In the middle of wheat and oat fields dugaree-clad soldiers are digging bombproof shelters and roofing communication trenches. Driving on the Schoenwald road to the Polish border patrol house, nine-yard-wide stretches of barbed wire were seen to extend over the rolling farms to the right and left.

Directly behind this maze of wire stand rusty iron tank obstacles, in the shape of gigantic stacks said to Turn to page 9 col. 6

Nine Persons are Hurt in 2 Traffic Crashes in County

Collisions Occur Near Leppla Corners and At Kaukauna

Five persons were injured in a collision on Highway 10 a mile west of Leppla's corners about 5 o'clock this morning, and four persons were hurt in a traffic crash at the intersection of Highways 41 and 55 at Kaukauna at 11:30 last night.

Cars driven by Carlton Schultz, 25, route 2, Appleton, and Joseph S. Sergot, 20, St. Paul, Minn., collided on Highway 10. Schultz was going north on a town road and Sergot was driving west on Highway 10 when the collision occurred, according to Captain Charles Steidl of the county traffic squad who investigated.

Schultz was cut about the face. Sergot suffered a cut on a knee. Max Sergot, 63, St. Paul, who was driving in the front seat with his driver hit the windshield with his head and was severely cut about the face. Max Sergot, 57, was cut about the left eye. Mrs. L. Maloney, 37, also an occupant of the Sergot car, suffered from shock, and her son Bernard, 5, was bruised about the head. Schultz and Max Sergot were taken to St. Elizabeth hospital.

The Kaukauna accident occurred near the north limits of Kaukauna when cars driven by Harvey Luebben, 303 N. Richmond street, and Mrs. Charles Mitchell, 31, 106 N. Oneida street, collided. Luebben was going west on Highway 41 and Mrs. Mitchell south on Highway 55 when the collision occurred. Kaukauna police said. The Mitchell car went 75 feet diagonally across the road and turned over in the ditch.

Mrs. Luebben, 36, suffered probable internal injury. Miss Mildred Haysmer, 15, 925 Hawes avenue, an occupant of the Mitchell car, suffered shoulder contusions and head bruises. Mrs. Mitchell suffered lacerations of the scalp and left arm. Miss Wilma Derkes, 16, Little Chute, also an occupant of the Mitchell machine, suffered a bruised shoulder and other bruises. They were taken to St. Elizabeth hospital.

Van Nuys Predicts at Least 15 Democratic Senators Would Not Support Roosevelt Third Term

Washington — (P) — A prediction that at least 15 Democratic senators would refuse to support President Roosevelt if he were nominated for a third term was made today by Senator Van Nuys (D-Ind.).

Van Nuys, who sometimes has opposed New Deal legislation, told reporters:

"It is not unlikely that the president may cudgel another nomination from the Democratic convention, but if he does I do not believe he will be reelected."

The Indiana senator said he would work against renomination of Mr. Roosevelt within the party, and that if the chief executive again were the nominee, he would remain inactive in the campaign. He did not name the 15 other Democratic senators whom he predicted would follow a similar course.

Van Nuys reiterated a previous statement that he "would not support Mr. Roosevelt or anybody else for a third term, because I believe

14 Million Boost In Tax on Incomes To Balance Budget

Budget Balancing Bill Means Higher Taxes for 220,000 and New Taxes for 112,000 More

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — The new 100 per cent income surtax which has been advanced by the Republican administration in another attempt to balance the sorely unbalanced state budget will dig deeper into the jeans of 220,202 Wisconsin citizens now contributing under the state income tax law, and will add to the total 112,332 persons who have heretofore escaped taxation by virtue of low incomes and the number of their exemptions, according to an analysis of the plan placed before administration senators.

The effect of the new surtax proposal would be a brand new income tax which would raise a total of $14,000,000 in two years. However, the plan provides for the repeal of the present 60 per cent income surtax law which raises about $5,000,000 biennially. Therefore the net yield would be in the neighborhood of $10,000,000. Coupled with the $5,000,000 dividends tax, the total of the $10,000,000 cigarette tax, the total of new revenue would approach $20,000,000. A total of $26,000,000 is needed to balance appropriations. Tentative plans call for drastic economies to make up the difference.

The effect of the new surtax would be to reach farther down into the lower earning brackets than the present normal tax does.

State Keeps All
Reason for proposing a surtax is that the normal income tax proceeds are divided with municipalities. If the administration were to raise normal income tax rates, only 40 per cent of the yield would remain with the state treasury for state government purposes, 50 per cent going to cities, and 10 per cent to counties. Under the surtax

Renew Efforts To Lift Squalus

Salvage Work Delayed by Uncertain Weather, Equipment Repairs

Portsmouth, N. H. — (P) — With a perfection borne of practice, a United States navy salvage crew today hoisted the sunken submarine Squalus from the ocean floor for the second time in six days and thereby let the bodies of her 26 dead nearer to release from the sea.

Portsmouth, N. H. — (P) — After hours of uncertainty caused by changeable weather and the necessity of repairing salvage equipment following last night's storm, the United States navy began a mid-morning today another effort to lift the sunken submarine Squalus and tow her toward the sheltering Isles of Shoals.

Shortly after 8:30 a. m. (CST), the pumps aboard the salvage vessel Falcon began to force air into the nine big lifting pontoons attached to the Squalus, resting on a mudbank 160 feet beneath the surface.

As the order to blow was given, near perfect weather prevailed at the salvage scene. Only the slightest ground swell ruffled an otherwise flat sea and a threatening cloud bank on the southerly horizon was dissipated by a light breeze and a bright sun.

Defeat Amendments to Pension System Bill

Madison — (P) — The assembly today battered down amendments to the controversial senate bill liberalizing pension systems for policemen and firemen in first, second and third class cities.

Amid charges by Assemblyman Albert Shimek (D) Algoma, that "beer had flown freely" to obtain passage of the measure, the house began debate on it but failed to reach a conclusive vote.

The bill was put over to next Tuesday on a motion to reconsider one of a series of amendments rejected.

77-Year-Old Spinster Charged With Murder

Allentown, Pa. — (P) — Margaret L. Cowan, gray-haired 77-year-old spinster was charged with murder today in the "merciful slaying" of her sister in a hospital room.

Alderman Joseph Slough fixed next Tuesday for a hearing. At the same time, District Attorney John L. Cuthall announced he would request a sanity examination for Miss Cowan, who told police she killed her sister "to put her out of her misery."

TWO ROMANIAN KILLED

Bucharest — (P) — Two Rumanian frontier guards were killed and one was wounded by Hungarian troops, an official Rumanian announcement said tonight.

as now in effect, all revenues remain with the state. The same would follow with the proposed new surtax.

Although the present normal tax does not apply to single persons earning net incomes of less than $800, the proposed new surtax will reach down to those single persons earning $640 or over.

The present normal tax exemptions are expressed in terms of dollars, $800 for the single person, $1750 for the married persons or heads of families, and $400 additional for each dependent.

The new surtax would exempt $640 of a single person's income, $1,333 of the married person with no dependents, $1,600 for the married person with one dependent, and $1,875 for the married person with two dependents.

The plan does not provide for any changes in the present normal tax. Turn to page 2 col. 2

Bund Leader Says Attorney General Spoke at Meeting

Kuhn Denies Brother's Influence Aided Him To Head Group

Washington — (P) — Fritz Kuhn, leader of the German-American Bund, told the Dies committee today that Attorney General Frank Murphy addressed a bund meeting in Detroit in 1936.

Kuhn made the remark voluntarily at the conclusion of the committee morning session on un-American activities.

"I tell you something," he said. "The general attorney, Mr. Murphy, he once talked at our meeting."

"Do you mean the attorney general?" asked Representative Thomas (R-Vt.), who had been questioning the bund leader.

"Yes," Kuhn replied, nodding his head forward.

"Where did he speak?" Thomas inquired.

"In the German house in Detroit," Kuhn said.

"When?"

"In 1936."

"Did he speak?"

"He was invited and came and spoke about 10 minutes."

"What did he talk about?"

"About German citizens."

"Did he praise the bund?"

"Oh, no."

Chairman Dies (D-Texas) rapped the gavel for a recess.

Kuhn at one point, during the morning questioning grabbed up his brief case as if to walk out on the hearing, after the committee refused to let him have a lawyer.

"You sit right there," Chairman Dies (D-Texas) ordered Kuhn, who had slid forward to the edge of the Turn to page 2 col. 1

Menasha Paper Mill Closes When Algae Clogs Intake Pipes

Menasha — (P) — The Gilbert Paper mill remained closed today because of a heavy scum of algae which had formed over the Fox river and the government canal as well as the north end of Lake Winnebago. The filters on the plant intake were clogged.

Fish were reported dying by the thousands for lack of oxygen because of the scum, and the city water supply was reported affected.

Sluice gates at the government dam were opened for half an hour last night in an effort to relieve the situation, but the action proved of little avail.

Gambling Clean-Up Is Ordered in Michigan

Lansing, Mich. — (P) — Governor Luren D. Dickinson ordered the state police today to clean up gambling in Michigan.

State Police Commissioner Oscar G. Olander disclosed he had virtually his entire police force into the field to comb the state for evidence of violation of the gambling laws and to arrest the operators of gambling devices and confiscate their equipment. Olander said he acted on instructions forwarded by the governor.

The executive office said Governor Dickinson would make a public statement on gambling probably tomorrow when he returns to the capitol from his vacation.

KILLED IN CRASH

Tomahawk, Wis. — (P) — Harry Rohloff, 38, of Wausau, was killed last night when his automobile rolled over 10 times after leaving Highway 10 at Irma, south of here. Rohloff, a shoemaker, was riding alone.

Senate Conferees Agree on New Revenue Bill

BROADEN BASE

112,000 Additional Taxpayers Would be Added to State Roll

Madison — (P) — The state senate received today a compromise tax plan worked out by Republican and Democratic coalitionists to raise $14,000,000 for the next two years by broadening the income surtax base to include more than 112,000 new taxpayers.

The levy, as proposed in an amendment to the administration's revenue bill, introduced by Senator Otto Mueller, of Wausau, Republican chairman of the finance committee, would be augmented by $6,000,000 from a 2 cents tax on each package of cigarettes.

The total proceeds—$20,000,000—would leave the state budget out of balance by about $6,000,000 and would require a corresponding slashing of appropriations by the emergency board, less any amounts that would accrue from unexpected tax returns.

Upon Mueller's motion the senate voted, 20 to 6, to make the revenue bill a special order of business for next Tuesday.

Senate Public Hearing
Senator Bernhard Getteman, insurgent Milwaukee Republican, who has advanced a plan to raise $20,000,000 through a luxury tax, objected to the compromise proposal and demanded that it be given public hearing. Charging that Wisconsin income tax rates are now higher than those of any other state he asked why Governor Harley had not "assumed leadership" on the problem instead of leaving it to the coalitionists.

Mueller's protest against referring the bill to committee for further hearing was sustained by the vote to call it up for debate Tuesday.

The agreed plan would replace the present 60 per cent income surtax with a new schedule based on sliding rates affecting thousands who heretofore paid no income taxes—either normal or surtax.

The coalition plan "contemplates wiping out of the $16,000,000 tax bill passed by the assembly practically everything but the controversial cigarette tax. Among the changes in the proposed increase in liquor and wine taxes, Mueller said the whole program would be endangered by refusal to kill this feature.

Chain Store Tax
The chain store tax also would be deleted and re-drafted into a separate bill.

Senator Anthony Gawronski (D) Milwaukee, co-author of a proposal to guarantee local governments at least half of their relief costs introduced another amendment today to reduce this figure to 30 per cent.

The compromise proposal, agreed upon at a conference yesterday, was the last of a series ranging from a general sales tax to diversion of highway funds. The revenue bill was stalled in the senate when Republicans and Democrats split on a suggested increase in the gasoline tax from 4 to 5 cents a gallon. This was defeated with the help of Democratic votes.

Senator Mueller, who acted as chairman of the conference and Democratic leader Henry Bolens of Port Washington, admitted the conferees had not been unanimous but they expected little trouble on the floor.

By increasing the scale of rates for the surtax somewhat above those of the normal tax law, net income exemptions would be reduced. The surtax exemption, in terms of taxable income, would be decreased from $1,000 to $640 for single persons, $1,750 to $1,333 for couples and $400 to $267 for each dependent.

Tragedy Attends Faulty Launching Of British Ship

Belfast, Northern Ireland — (P) — One woman was killed and 20 persons injured today when Britain's newest aircraft carrier, the 23,000-ton Formidable, burst her supporting cradle and came a runaway launching in Belfast slough.

The $15,000,000 vessel slid into the water prematurely, hurling blocks of wood supporting her keel among thousands of persons who had gathered for her formal launching.

Lady Wood, wife of British Air Minister Sir Kingsley Wood, managed to break the traditional bottle of wine on the receding bow as the vessel started sliding away in some unexplained manner.

Although startled by the loud crackling of timbers breaking away from the cradle supporting the 735-foot long vessel, she hastily broke the wine bottle and called the Formidable's name.

Tugs which had been grouped at the end of the ways to take the carrier in tow maneuvered frantically to get out of the way of the "runaway" vessel, their sirens screaming.

The Formidable's name.

Jackson Urges Continuation of Present Policy

Solicitor General Warns Democrats Against Conservatism

Springfield, Ill.—Robert H. Jackson, United States solicitor general, declared today what the Democratic party needs in the 1940 campaign is "not the boldness to create a new leadership, but the courage to follow the bold leadership that we have."

"We have now reached a decisive stage in the struggle to maintain the liberal Democratic party which Franklin Roosevelt has created," Jackson said in an address before an Illinois state fair Democratic rally.

"A failure now will doom our party to a shelving as long as that of 1860. The Democratic party by 1860 had failed to keep the faith of Jefferson and Jackson. It saw great issues unfolding, and it dodged, and when it could not dodge, it straggled."

"Demand Roosevelt!" "His president, Buchanan, outdistanced all others in conservatism and timidity. In fact Buchanan would, if he could be restored, be the ideal candidate for the conservative Democrats or the Republicans in 1940. The program is for a new Buchananism."

"Buchananism is now advocated under the senseless name of a 'middle-of-the-road' candidate. A middle of the road driver, everyone knows such a driver simply holds up traffic going in both directions."

"The answer of the rank and file of the Democrats to this move has been a widespread demand that President Roosevelt himself accept another term. . . . They know that the American people are fundamentally liberal."

Jackson said "the rest of the nation regards Illinois as a safety Democratic state, we know that is one of those states that will support the hand of our great Democratic president."

witness chair, protesting in his German accent what he called "unfair" questions.

Dies apparently soothed him with an assertion that the committee wished to be fair and Representative Starnes (D-Ala.) resumed the questioning.

Kuhn previously had demanded unsuccessfully that he be given a chance to obtain a lawyer, after committee counsel had attempted to trace federal relief money into a $3,000 fund Kuhn collected for winter relief in Germany in 1936.

Earlier, Kuhn had denied tensely that the influence of his brother, Justice Max Kuhn, of the German supreme court, had anything to do with his gaining the leadership of the German-American Bund.

Kuhn was ordered to answer a question of this nature after Chairman Dies (D-Texas) had cut short the witness' vigorous protests that internal affairs of Germany could have no connections with bund activities in this country.

When Kuhn balked several times at answering "yes" or "no" to queries by Rhea Whitely, for the house committee investigating un-American activities, Representative Thomas (R-N.J.) shouted:

"Mr. chairman, this witness is un-true, evasive and making every attempt to evade these questions. I want the witness to answer the questions."

Kuhn shouted:

Dies, cigar in mouth, pounded on the table with a heavy gavel and the stocky Kuhn shouted through the din:

"I asked you to get fair questions here! What has the supreme court of Germany to do with un-American activities?"

The committee had recalled Kuhn to the stand today for further information about the policies of the bund, which he has headed since its formation.

Alluding to a trip which Kuhn and other bund officials made to Germany in 1936, Whitely brought up the fact that Kuhn had headed a subscription drive which raised $3,000 in this country for German winter relief. Kuhn had testified that he delivered the money in person to Adolf Hitler.

After Kuhn had agreed that many members of the bund were unemployed and that, as American citizens, they were eligible for relief payments, Whitely demanded:

"So some of your members contributed money that the United States government gave for relief to take over and turn over to Mr. Hitler for the winter relief fund in Germany?"

Challenge Statement

The witness answered "yes" but almost immediately afterwards challenged this statement. "How do you know that?" he demanded.

"Why didn't you take the $3,000 and help the unemployed in your own organization?" Whitely asked.

Kuhn explained that the money was collected as a contribution to the German relief fund and could not be used for anything else.

When Whitely shifted his line of questioning to inquire about Kuhn's brother's position in the German supreme court, the witness appealed to Dies.

"Do I have to answer questions which belong to Germany and not the United States?" he asked excitedly, his voice shrill.

Dies said he would be required to answer any question pertinent to the investigation. Then Whitely asked how many judges there were on the German court and the witness shouted:

"What does un-American activities have to do with how many judges are on the German supreme court?"

"Do you answer that question or

KUHN STIRS UP FIGHT AS HE TESTIFIES FOR DIES

The Dies Committee hearing in Washington was thrown into an uproar by a verbal clash between Fritz Kuhn (left), German-American Bund leader who is shown as he testified, and Rep. Joe Starnes (right), of Alabama, who questioned Kuhn for a time. When Starnes asked if the purpose of the Bund was not to establish in the United States a government such as that now in power in Germany, Kuhn retorted: "That's an absolute lie—a flat lie." "Don't call me a liar," Starnes shouted as he advanced toward Kuhn. Then Capitol police intervened.

For example: The sum of the rates applied at present for the normal tax, the teachers' retirement tax, and the 60 per cent surtax on the first $1,000 of income is one per cent. Under the proposed rates it would be 2.25 per cent, or an increase of 1.25 per cent.

Except for the emergency income tax bill proposed by Governor La Follette in the 1931 special session—intended to raise funds for work relief and other purposes—the present proposal is probably the most drastic income tax plan ever introduced with administration sympathy in the Wisconsin legislature.

It would create 36,157 new income taxpayers in the $1,000 bracket, and the $3,000 to $4,000 bracket, almost $1,000,000 in each instance. Those earning over $10,000 would contribute an additional $1,200,000 to the treasury under the proposed new tax plan.

The average surtax per taxpayer under the revised plan would range from $2 for the person who earns between $1,000 and $2,000 to $65 for the $50,000 class, and $1,391 to the person earning $15,000 or over.

The tax would bring to the treasury a total of $41,244 from the 29,978 taxpayers who would be covered under it but who did not file returns on 1937 income under the present income tax laws.

The 112,332 persons who filed returns on 1937 income, but who were not required to pay a tax under the present tax laws, would contribute $220,535 to the state under the proposed surtax.

Earlier, Kuhn told the committee he favored organizing what he called "patriotic groups into a united front. . . . While he characterized these groups as fascist organizations.

Before the stocky, heavy-set witness resumed his testimony, one committee member told reporters:

"There is an inter-locking setup by which certain organizations represent each other's propaganda, support each other's meetings, and cooperate to advance their common cause."

Indications were that members of some of these groups would be

Catlin Says His Labor Law Makes Workingman Free

Appleton Assemblyman Lauds Measure in Speech Over Radio

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—The Catlin labor dispute as a labor dispute as one between an employer and a majority of his employees in a collective bargaining unit and which outlaws "stranger picketing" has restored an American balance and freedom to the Wisconsin laboring man," according to his author, Republican Assemblyman Mark Catlin Jr. of Appleton.

Catlin's remarks were broadcast over the state-owned radio stations and coincided with a denunciation of the Heil administration's legislative record by the Wisconsin Federation of Labor meeting in annual convention in Wausau.

Catlin said that he sponsored the law to insure "individual liberty and employment" for the Wisconsin workingman.

"Less than six months ago," he related, "it was the labor law of the state of Wisconsin that one man might be compelled to hold his life or the means of living at the mere will of others."

The state labor law, before the Catlin revision, he said, deprived the workingman of "the American right to progress according to his own ability, initiative, genius and willingness to work with complete liberty to pursue a vocation or employment of his free choice, and to follow it as he saw fit."

Raps Padway

When the Republican legislature began its work at the beginning of the year, Catlin continued, "we found . . . that the Wisconsin laboring man was probably the most handcuffed and hog-tied of any in the laboring field in the United States—subject to coercion and practical persecution by the very ones who had so vividly pictured the great benefits that were going to accrue to the working man."

Discussing the opposition of Joseph Padway, A.F. general counsel—Catlin called him "the $25,000 a year counsel"—and other officials of organized labor to his bill before it passed, Catlin said:

"You will recall that the opponents stated that it was their positive determination that the first day that the bill ever became the law of the state, on that day, an action would be commenced against me by the courts through all of the courts available, if necessary, to have it declared unconstitutional."

"Where is this 'test case' today? Oh, yes, an action was started, but as soon as the merits were outlined in the pleadings of the parties . . . Mr. Padway moved to dismiss the action himself and cleverly attempted to retreat from everything he had so vociferously maintained at earlier dates."

That action Catlin termed a "fraud and a fiasco."

Appleton Opinions Differ on Changing Thanksgiving Date

Appleton residents today offered varied opinions on information that President Roosevelt has decided to proclaim Nov. 23 Thanksgiving day instead of the usual date a week later.

President Roosevelt said the change was asked by merchants to provide a longer Christmas shopping season, but some Appleton merchants claim the change would not be beneficial.

Downtown Milwaukee merchants plan a personal appeal to Governor Heil in an effort to persuade him to follow President Roosevelt's lead in moving up Thanksgiving day to Nov. 23. The governor has expressed his opposition to the change in date of the traditional observance.

Some of the persons interviewed opposed the change, stating there is better it is for us and our customers."

Favors Change

Ray Eichelberger, chairman of the retail division of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce:

"The change would benefit the public and the merchants by providing an extra week for Christmas shopping after Thanksgiving. It's a fine move. The new date would coincide with our plans for Christmas opening now scheduled for Nov. 23. The date could be changed to Nov. 24 if Thanksgiving were held on Nov. 23."

William J. Ferron, clothier:

"Men as a rule do not buy new clothes for Thanksgiving so the president's proclamation probably would not affect us. Personally, however, I would like to see the date celebrated on the traditional date."

An Appleton doctor:

"While the date of Thanksgiving has no direct bearing on my practice, I don't like to see old traditions changed. We've had Thanksgiving on the same day for a number of years, and I see no reason for disrupting things for no important reason."

Elmer Honkamp, district Republican chairman:

"It would be very disturbing throughout the country to have the date changed without notice, and a uniform time of observance probably will not be followed by all states."

Widow of Former Senator Succumbs

Mrs. Lavina White, 72, Dies at Her Home in Winneconne

Winneconne—Mrs. Lavina White, 72, widow of former State Senator Merrit F. White, died at her home here early yesterday morning. She had been ill for the last several years.

Her husband, besides serving in the state legislature, was a member of the Winneconne county board and was president of this village 30 years.

Mrs. White, who was Miss Lavina Randall before her marriage to Mr. White in 1891, was born in the town of Winneconne Feb. 24, 1867. She lived in this village since childhood.

Survivors are a daughter, Miss Lola A. White, Winneconne; and J. Ervin Watson, Tripoli, Wis., who was reared by Mr. and Mrs. White. Mrs. White was a member of the Woman's Relief Corps.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon at the home with the Rev. O. P. Lovik, pastor of the Winneconne Baptist church in charge. Burial will be in Winneconne cemetery.

Prefer Old Date

Karl Haugen, general manager of Schlafers, Inc.:

"While the change in date is not of major importance, I would prefer having Thanksgiving day on the old date. Appleton merchants this year are having their Christmas opening on Nov. 23 and this will give the Thanksgiving day shoppers an opportunity to look over Christmas goods provided the old date is retained for the holiday."

Elmer Rehbein, manager of Peterson-Rehbein meat market:

"It's hard enough as it is to get poultry ready for Thanksgiving and if the day is set ahead, there's sure to be a lot of pin-feathered birds on the market. We don't like the idea and I'm sure the customers won't if the poultry they buy isn't in good condition. The later Thanksgiving is in the month, the better it is for us and our customers."

Claim Major Obstacle Removed in X-Ray Treatment of Cancer

Chicago—A cure for "radiation sickness," which has been a major obstacle in giving cancer patients x-ray treatments, was announced today by the American Medical Association.

The discovery was reported in the association's journal by Dr. Wallace Graham of Toronto, Ont.

He found that nicotinic acid, a form of the vitamin B complex, proved "definitely effective" in relieving the illness in 74.3 per cent of 70 patients to whom it was given.

Cause of the sickness, which Dr. Graham said occurred in about 27 per cent of the x-ray patients, is unknown.

"With the addition of nausea and vomiting to the discomfort of those already suffering from cancer, it is not surprising some patients prefer to discontinue their treatments rather than suffer this additional distress," he commented.

Other health briefs:

Commenting on a beautician's claim that saturating the system with iodine would cause the hair to turn reddish brown—and thus avert gray hair—the journal said:

"If this theory were correct, the world would be full of reddish brown hair, for every syphilitic patient under proper treatment ingests iodine in considerable amount over long periods. There is no scientific ground for the idea."

Wherever man lives the intestinal parasite causing dysentery is found, Drs. Frank H. Connell and Harry T. French of Hanover, N. H., reported.

"In temperate parts of our country at least," the physicians concluded, "the probability of acquiring an amebic infection depends more on how one lives than on where one lives."

CIO Contribution To Democrats May Result in New Law

Next Congress Likely to Give Serious Consideration to Matter

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—Although it has been unofficially estimated from time to time, it remained for Oliver Quayle, treasurer of the Democratic National committee, to make the first official revelation that the CIO's biggest union—the United Mine Workers of America—had contributed $500,000 to the 1936 political campaign.

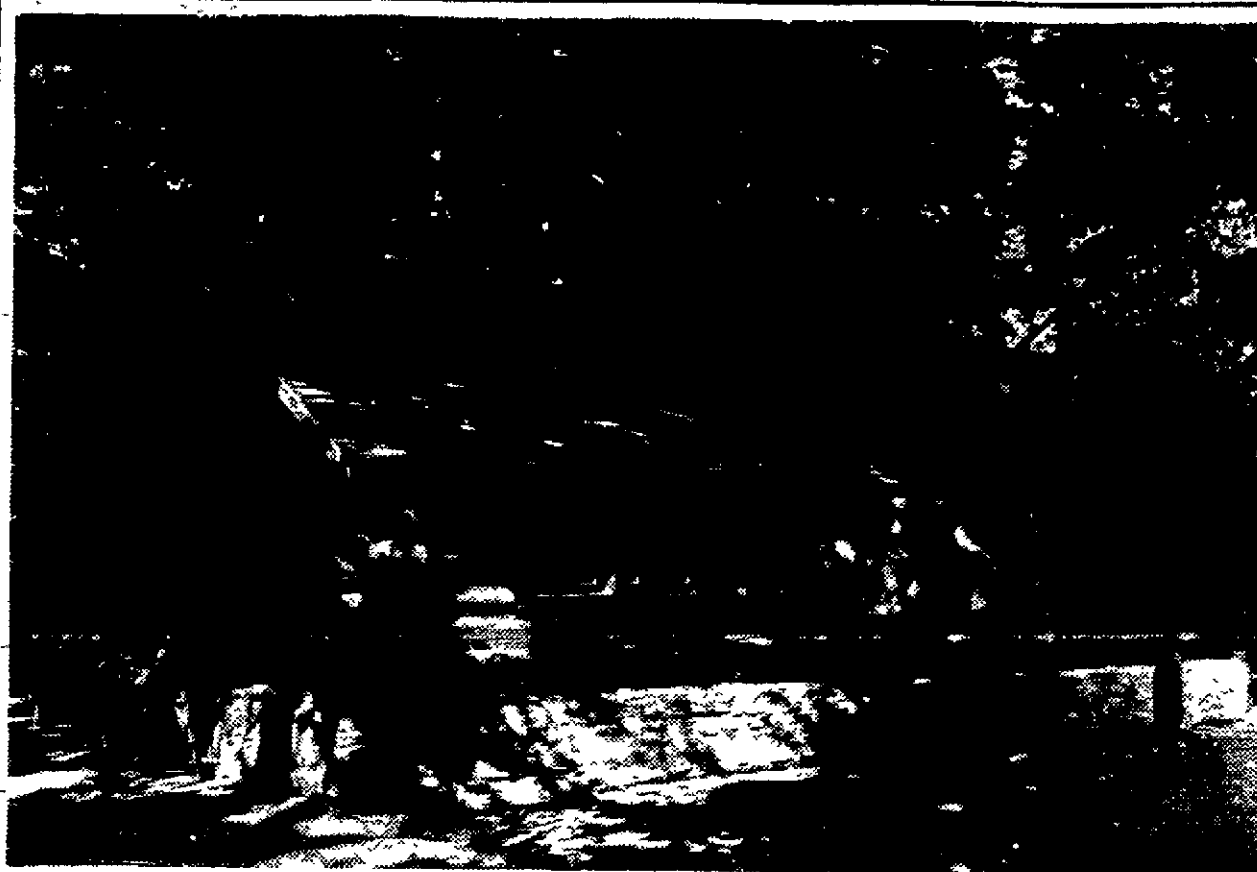

Mr. Quayle got into the mixup by making a statement that all he knew about was a $50,000 loan from John L. Lewis and his organization which was on the books of the Democratic National committee when he became treasurer in April, 1937. Further research into the 1936 records has disclosed to Mr. Quayle that the contribution, which was not in the form of loans and which consequently are not recoverable by the workers' organization, amounted to the half million dollar figure.

The incident becomes important in view of the efforts made by Senator Tydings of Maryland, Democrat, in the closing days of the last session of congress, to have a provision attached to pending legislation so that political loans and contributions could not be made without the knowledge and specific consent of the workers themselves.

The proposal was made by the Maryland senator with the hope that, at the next session, congress would have the same measure before it for action. The British labor law requires strict regulation of the financial activities of labor unions in political campaigns. American election laws sharply prohibit corporations, or any group of corporations such as would be embraced in the average trade association, from making money contributions to political campaigns. Another Hatch law governing the methods of obtaining money from workmen, originally for dues, only to have huge sums contributed to political campaigns by union executives without submitting the matter to the workers, is likely to get serious consideration in the next congress.

Tool Of CIO?
The time may have become ripe for this legislation because of the CIO's extraordinary relationship to the 1936 campaign. Thus it is disclosed that the so-called Labor Non-Partisan league, which campaigned for Mr. Roosevelt, was financed to the extent of $140,000 by the CIO unions. The A. F. of L. has since de-

NEW LOG BUILDING, FIREPLACES AT TELULAH PARK

Telulah park in a few short weeks has been transformed from a wild, useless place to an improved and modern park by a WPA crew under the direction of the park board. Shown above are some of the improvements. At the top is a building constructed of natural logs to be used for a store house and rest rooms for men and women. The lower picture shows one of two sheltered stone fireplaces which have been completed. In the background is one of the four stone drinking fountains spotted around the park. The shelter over the fireplace also is built of logs. A gravelled drive now circles the 18-acre park. Trees have been trimmed-out and the brush removed. Sewers and water mains have been extended to the park. If aid can be secured from the WPA, a large shelter, roof mounted on stone pillars will be erected to protect persons using the park from the weather. (Post-Crescent Photos) nounced the league as a tool of the CIO.

When labor unions form and finance political organizations, the congress, of course, can extend its power of regulation to such unions as it does to corporations. So far as disclosure of financial contributions, there is no question but that the CIO unions have made complete and full revelation of their activities. The point at issue is not related to compulsory disclosure, because this is whether workers who pay their dues for one purpose can have those funds used for another objective.

There is no legal reason why workers should not contribute as much of their pay as they wish to campaign funds, but should labor unions, as such, be permitted to do the soliciting, especially when a similar privilege is denied employers whose businesses are incorporated? Corporation executives may give freely as individuals out of their own pockets, but their corporation cannot be used to levy an assessment on stockholders.

Corporation Funds
Campaign managers would rejoice if there were some amendment to the existing law which would permit corporations to solicit funds for political campaigns from their stockholders. Some of the big corporations with hundreds of thousands of stockholders would be meat for the political managers, even if the assessment was only 50 cents a head.

If the labor unions, therefore, fight legislation forbidding them from using union dues for political purposes or prohibiting the membership rolls of the organization from being utilized for solicitation of campaign funds, then it would not be surprising to see an effort made in congress to lift the present ban on the solicitation or contribution of campaign funds by corporations.

Theoretically, the giving of large sums by any individual or organization is supposed to beget a possible use of undue influence. Corporations which made big campaign gifts used to be accused of seeking special favors. Instead of condemning this practice and declaring that two wrongs do not make a single right, the CIO leadership has insisted publicly that the contributions it made in the 1936 campaign entitle it to

Farm Fire Causes Damage of $5,000

Buildings, Crops Destroyed in Blaze Near Forest Junction

Forest Junction—With a day of shock thrashing within three wagon-loads of completion, fire broke out in the barn at the Elmer Broeren farm, three miles northwest of Forest Junction, and destroyed the barn and contents, a poultry house, a garage, the grain separator and a feed cutter early Wednesday evening.

With the dairy herd in the barn for the evening's milking and the thrashing machinery still in operation, the loss was a heavy one.

There is no evidence that anybody in the administration was consciously influenced by what the CIO contributed in the 1936 campaign, and the imputation by Mr. Lewis, in a statement to the press, that there was an obligation of some sort resulted in an almost immediate repayment of the $50,000 loan as a means of showing the administration's displeasure over the incident.

There is no doubt that the CIO wields considerable influence in the present administration, but nobody can truthfully say that the money contributed by the CIO brought this about, though the presence of a large number of votes among CIO unions no doubt had its effect, just as numerical voting strength customarily does when exercised by other pressure groups, such as farmer associations or various trade union factions that do not contribute money but give canvassing time to line up their members both before and on election days.

tion, the fire was discovered shortly before 7 o'clock in one of the mows where straw was being blown from a feed cutter after receiving it from the blower of the grain separator standing outside.

With the exception of one heater, which could not be released, the cows were driven from the burning building. Most of the chickens were also removed from the poultry house and much of the machinery was also saved.

Hay Crop Destroyed
The season's hay crop had been stored in the barn and was consumed as was also the day's output of grain which was being stacked in the granary underneath the mow in which the fire was discovered.

The Forest Junction fire department responded to the call from the farm and succeeded in preventing the fire from spreading to the residence. Mrs. Broeren, who was ill in the home after returning from a hospital last Friday, was removed to a neighboring farm home at the outset of the blaze. Fire departments from Wrightstown, Greenleaf and Kaukauna stood guard at the nearby farms till the blaze had subsided.

The loss, estimated at around $5,000, is partly covered by insurance.

BUILDING APPROACHES
Deer Creek—The state highway department is building the bridge approaches on Highway 76 near Bear Creek and later will build a new bridge. Charles Appleton and sons, contractors of Kaukauna, are doing the work. Land has been purchased from the neighboring farms and the roads will be widened and raised three feet near the bridge.

BUYING OFF PROPOSED LAWS

The arrest of a Milwaukee lobbyist at Madison charged with offering to obtain for personal finance companies the withdrawal of a bill hurtful to their interests upon condition that he be paid $1500 may safely be left where it now reposes in the hands of the law. The accused is entitled, indeed, must have, the fair, open and just hearing guaranteed to all.

But the occasion is appropriate for a consideration by the public of a very nasty practice that probably persists in all legislative halls. Merely advancing our own opinion after watching legislative action for many sessions we doubt whether the legislature ever convened at Madison that did not witness the purposeful introduction of a bill with the hope of withdrawing it for a consideration.

Let a mining camp pitch tents and before the site is 24 hours old gambling ticklers will have opened up for business. The same holds true of a legislative session even though legislators themselves be above suspicion. The practice of introducing bills "by request" provides an easy opening for the extortioner. More-over many legislators introduce bills without revealing the sinister figures who are behind them, sometimes themselves convinced the proposed act carries merit. And anyway it was an obliging and ingratiating gentleman who suggested the measure.

During the generations railroads and public utilities have been particular and popular objects of attack in this manner. It was natural to select the personal finance companies since a bill against them mixed with two parts demagoguery and three parts ignorance was possible of flaring up like a beacon in the night.

If there is one thing that Wisconsin has handled in the last twenty years with the most supreme constructive ability it has been its control and supervision of loan companies of which the personal finance company is only one.

Wisconsin's policy was adopted about seventeen years ago. Its purpose was to see to the creation of a fair system whereby the worthy man in emergency need of money but without any particular standing or property could obtain his reasonable requirements without getting into the hands of bloodsuckers.

The base of this structure consisted of the credit union to be established in every plant of any consequence. But it would take a generation to complete the building of these unions. The personal finance company occupied an important link in the chain. But in order to stay afloat it would have to charge a rate of interest not permissible upon secured loans. The banking commission was finally given authority to adjust the rates of interest permissible in such cases, altering its orders as it watched the earnings of the personal finance companies.

And the splendid success that has been achieved in this state through an excellent policy of intelligence and patience now finds us with millions of dollars available in credit unions and personal finance companies operated in such a manner that a questionnaire sent out to borrowers from them by the banking commission resulted in the most flattering approval of their methods and conduct probably ever bestowed on any system.

Had lobbyists in the past, with or without the aid of demagogues and the hard-boiled, succeeded in impairing this great constructive work, and one that is far from its pinnacle even today, it must be obvious that it would have been the Little Fellows who would have suffered.

MIKE GIVES MISSISSIPPI A THOUGHT TO MULL OVER

Mississippi is recognized as the home of classic elections. For a time during the life of Huey Long it lost leadership in the parade but over a period of years its average for "pouring it on" knocks the socks off every other state in the union.

Recently there was a primary down there to see which ambitious statesman could enter the run-off on August 29 against Martin Conner, familiarly known as Mike.

Mike watched his many opponents swinging around the many political circles and read their various and sundry promises, expansive and beautiful as they were.

Why, spoke out Mike, these fellows are soft. "If they," he continued, "promise the old people $50 a month, I'll give them $100; and if they raise that bid I'll go higher."

There's a man after everybody's heart. Mike shows he's one of the evil class that has played poker. No four card flusher can make him crawl under the table.

But, on occasion, there pours from his lips great wisdom. On one occasion he said:

"If you elect me governor I will give you anything you are willing to pay for. What is more, I will do all in my power to see that you get what you pay for. None of these candidates will give you anything you don't pay for. In fact, the people are lucky when they get what they pay for."

Of course there is a meaning right plumb on the surface of Mike's statement that may appear a little harsh to those who came to be amused. It is involved in those deadly words, "what you are willing to pay for."

Is it really fair to rouse the sleeper, to tickle the ribs of the smiling dreamer? Why not let the fantasy continue a little longer and permit people to still fondle and ever kiss the notion they can get something for nothing?

Probably Mike will find the people in Mississippi like those people in Dakota willing to give anybody everything so long as they don't have to contribute to the cost.

THERE WAS ONLY ONE MAJOR DISEASE.—UNEMPLOYMENT

When Philip Murray, CIO chieftain, declared that Mr. Roosevelt should call a national conference of business, government and labor leaders in order to end unemployment he indicated a 'praiseworthy annoyance at the existence of our constant figure of 12 million without a job, and yet he was really cracking the jest of the year.

It is by no means impossible for labor, were it united, industrialists, business and farm leaders to make great headway against unemployment if they didn't have to carry that incubus of the administration at Washington, its brilliant-minded left-wingers, and its enthusiastic sympathy for everything that won't work.

Senator Vandenberg without realizing it answered Mr. Murray when he declared:

"It can't be done with patent medicines. It can't be done with rabbits out of hats. It can't be done with trick arithmetic. It can't be done by a wizard of Oz who tries to build a solvent prosperity around an insolvent treasury. It can't be done by new adventures in red ink. It can't be done by endlessly continuing to spend $10,000 a minute while we take in only $8,000 a minute."

It becomes all the more evident as time rolls on that no solid basis for prosperity can be built under an administration that has dragged the country into the middle of the Everglades and insists that it is in the Garden of Eden.

When the President made one of his weary gestures to business by inviting Mr. Ford to lunch with him a particularly reliable grapevine said that Mr. Ford got in a "How do you do" and also a "Good-bye," and that for the rest of the two hours the President told him how to make cars.

But in spite of the paralyzing condition that exists America is optimistic. It has strength and measureless reserves of vitality.

And thanks to the Constitution, the term of every ruler has a definite end.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

PROUD LADY AT THE ZOO

She has a way of looking down
Her nose with haughty air,
As if no one in all the town
Could match her cold, proud stare.

She is so far above the rest
Of us, we find it hard
To meet her gaze, or know the best
Approach to one so starred.

She looks as if she constantly
Should wear a goldorgette.
Her nose is made for one; then she Could stare more proudly yet.

She finds it difficult to view
The rabble from her height.
She can't descend to me and you
As lesser people might.

And yet when we look up at her,
We always have to laugh
To think so much pride should bestir
A silly old giraffe!

Opinions of Others

SILVER'S "IN AGAIN"

Whenever a nation finds itself in financial straits, for whatever cause, it lays itself open to being nibbled to death by white rabbits.

The heartiest of all the rabbit breed is silver. Now silver is back on the job and the ghost of Coin Harvey walks.

One of the hottest presidential campaigns was about silver—Bryan and 16 to 1 in 1896. Silver then, as now, had, as former Senator Gore put it, all the attributes of money except value. But the attempt to bootstrap silver is perennial, nevertheless.

The latest revival from the "do-something-for-silver" crowd proposes an arbitrary jacking up of the price our treasury would pay to $1.04 an ounce from the present 64 cents. This despite the fact that the rate we have been paying contributed many millions per year to our deficit. Why not $1.10 or $1.000 per ounce is not explained. For if the theory would work at $1.04 it would work that much better the higher it went.

By fixing the $1.04 price the silver senators (just another and very potent pressure group) contend that every silver mine in America would open; that thousands of men would be employed; that a lot of mines of which silver is a by-product (manganese, lead, zinc, copper, etc.) would start humming; that by buying foreign silver at much more than it is worth, and thereby increasing our silver supply, we could trade off our agricultural surplus, and that therefore everything would be happy and the solution, in the words of Sam Goldwyn, would be solved. Mention that the bill for all this

DALE HARRISON'S In Old New York

New York—Just for fun costs a lot of money. An evening's lark on Broadway can be nearly as expensive as a week's salary, but to make that possible there are annual expenditures of many millions of dollars by the corporations dedicated to whoopee and wassail.

This concerns you a great deal more than it does me, because eighty per cent of the fun, frolic and frivolity business comes from out of town. The customers see the girls, hear the music, laugh at the comics and dine and dance between times. The thing they don't see is the machinery that makes the whole hilarious business possible.

There is a young man, Hy Weinberg, from the University of Wisconsin who at the age of 27 sits behind a desk at Broadway's largest night club, the International Casino, and has a big finger in spending one and one-quarter million dollars a year so people can have fun.

He studies weather reports, for if it rains it affects business; and if business slumps his purchasing plans have to be modified. He gets daily reports on hotel attendance, for from the hotels come customers. He analyzes general business trends, and from his analyses gauges his own activities.

I asked him for some statistics. What does a night club have to spend and to buy to satisfy the customers? Mr. Weinberg gave me some average weekly figures. The club, he said, buys 2,160 chickens, for chicken is America's favorite dish. Next in demand is beef, and he buys a ton of it. Veal is consumed at the rate of 800 pounds a week, together with 150 dozen eggs, 16,000 rolls, 600 pounds of butter, 120 gallons of gin and 16 cases of champagne. The "setups" which supplement the liquor include 9,800 spools of charged water and 1,800 bottles of ginger ale.

In the revue are 100 people, but behind the scenes — in the kitchens and offices and cellars — are 300 more, all working, in a manner of speaking. Just for fun.

When Mrs. Will Rogers passed through town recently on her way to testify before a federal grand jury investigating an alleged lottery racket, Albert Crockett, old-time newspaper man, was reminded of an occasion years ago when Will Rogers was appearing in one of the Ziegfeld Follies.

A wealthy New Yorker, traveling through Virginia, had come upon a man who had spent most of his life as a preacher in a small village. The New Yorker, deeply impressed by the simplicity and Godliness of the Virginian, made the preacher and his wife a present of a trip to New York.

At that time there were many people who professed to be shocked by the scanty attire of the Follies girls, much as Gov. Dickinson of Michigan was shocked by "the awful brink" he discovered on his recent New York visit. As part of the entertainment for the small town preacher and his wife, an evening at the Follies was arranged. The New Yorker wasn't sure how the preacher would have fared in his life been to a Broadway show, would take it; but it was worth a chance.

Will Rogers was the show's star. The preacher watched the performance, Crockett recalls, fascinated. The girls, to him, were beautiful artists. If there was depravity or evil, he saw none of it. To him it was only beauty and grace.

It was Will Rogers, though, who captivated him. On the day following the visit to the theatre, the Man of God expressed to Crockett the great happiness that had come to his wife and himself through the Follies experience.

"When I got back to the hotel last night," said the Virginian, "we knelt beside our bed, and I spoke a prayer; and I prayed: 'Thank Thee, Oh God, for Will Rogers who in these troubled times is showing the world how to laugh, and thus is making up happier men and women.'"

Crockett was so impressed with the churchman's earnestness, that he wrote Will Rogers what had happened; and Mrs. Rogers, replying for her husband, wrote back: "Mr. Rogers asked me to tell you that he appreciates your story about the minister more than anything that has ever been said about him."

would be written upon the same old frayed and crowded cuff that records the rest of the deficit is conveniently ignored.

The scheme is no more and no less cock-eyed than the philosopher's stone, the tulip craze, thirty-Thursdays, the can-and-rat-ranch, or any other item on that long and dreary list of devices to make a silk purse out of a sow's ear.

But the point is—silver's "in again." And it will keep coming back unless a liberal government gives more heed to the dangers of a "loose fiscal policy."

Sometime silver may take hold. And if it happens the rabbit will turn into a tiger.—New York World-Telegram.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington — One reason congressmen want to go home is to get at some honest Christian fishing.

We are not the final authority on what fishing ought to be, but we do know good fishing when we find it. And fishing in the brackish backwaters around Washington doesn't qualify.

It is nice, in several ways, to be a member of congress. From now until next January most members won't have anything they absolutely MUST do. So they can spend at least a little time at luxurious unessentials while driving away the conflicts, panics and bites of a crusty session.

For that we recommend trout fishing with a light rod and flies in a mountain stream. Flat streams won't do. The quest is too over-whelming. Once a light nibbler won't do. Congressmen fish in backwaters around here.

The Than Which
A boat trip on the Chesapeake is a sample of that. The late Senator Joe Robinson of Arkansas was to indulge, but it never took his pressure down.

You go out in a boat with half a dozen companions. A motor pulls you out into a channel current. You lower lines. They are hand lines. They are not on a light nibbler pole. You place a piece of shrimp or maybe a lump of jelly-like crab meat on the hook, sink it with a five-ounce anchor, and wait for bites three to 10 fathoms down.

You are likely to catch anything from sea trout to crabs and eels. And you may ever stepped on an eel, at night, in the bottom of a boat?

Much of the fishing is after dark or just before sunrise. We hate to think what might happen if a congressman, fishing on the bay in an effort to clear his mind before an important vote, hauled up one of those horrid slack-water monstrosities called a toadfish.

At 3 o'clock in the morning, with four stiff drinks and a sudden sandwich under your belt, there is nothing else quite so nasty looking as a toadfish.

Have Mercy

If your congressman didn't vote right on neutrality or lending—spending, think twice before you hang his political scalp on the traffic light at Main and Seventh street.

The fellow may have tried honestly to do his job with some fishing only to find himself a toadfish that made him think the world was an ugly place not worth saving.

Majority Leader Barkley gave a hint of the situation when he pleaded for time for congress to get back home and gain strength from the feel of familiar spots. He tried to tell the story of the Greek giant, Antaeus, whose strength was renewed each time he touched earth.

By the closing hour of the hectic session Barkley couldn't think of the giant's name. He was that high in the air. He thought it might be Andros.

"It's Antaeus," Senator William King of Utah prompted. "He was a King who kept his feet closer to earth these days. Next year he is up for re-election as a Democrat in a state quivering on the brink of a swing to Republicanism."

Smart Democrats and smart Progressives alike realize that the signs are not favorable for them next year. Although they know that Heil has lost support they all fear privately that only through union can the Republicans be displaced. The difficulty is one of mechanics. Shall the Progressives throw over the machine they have spent decades in building, just in a temporary emergency? Shall the state representatives of a powerful national party buckle down to a purely provincial political organization which may or may not grow in the future?

Although they know that Heil has lost support they all fear privately that only through union can the Republicans be displaced. The difficulty is one of mechanics. Shall the Progressives throw over the machine they have spent decades in building, just in a temporary emergency? Shall the state representatives of a powerful national party buckle down to a purely provincial political organization which may or may not grow in the future?

WELL, WE WANTED A CHANGE, DIDN'T WE?

THE SUPREME COURT'S BEEN CHANGED A BIT TOO

Under the Capitol Dome

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — The belief that Bob LaFollette will run for reelection to the United States senate next year — but on the Democratic ticket as a New Dealer — is shared by an increasing number of Wisconsin Democrats according to information gleaned from various sources in the party.

A week after the event comes the first definite word of what transpired at the secret conference far up in the northwoods of Wisconsin's leading Democratic New Dealers.

One of the most interesting topics was the position of the official New Deal leadership on the delicate problem of LaFollette's candidacy for reelection. Out of their discussions the conclusion is suggested that the Democrats will support LaFollette in return for his transfer to their column, and possibly in return for Progressive support of one or two liberal Democratic candidates for state office, including the governorship.

2-Way Sets Seen as Next Step In County Police Radio System

BY L. J. DERUS

Outagamie county is keeping pace with the times as far as protection from crime is concerned.

The county police radio committee is conducting a study of the advisability of installing 2-way radio sets in the county. At present only receiving sets are had by the law enforcement officials, and calls to be sent over the radio must be phoned to the broadcasting station WAKE at Oshkosh.

Supervisor Miles P. Dempsey, Bear Creek, chairman of the county police radio committee, predicted that soon Outagamie county as well as other counties in the 4-county police radio hook-up will be equipped with 2-way sets.

Preliminary study indicates that costs of new 2-way sets would be offset by the saving of toll charges to phone in calls to the broadcasting station, Dempsey said. Some of the old receiving sets in the county must be replaced soon, and if the present study warrants it, 2-way sets will be purchased instead of receiving sets.

"Our police radio system is one of the best assets in the county's program of protection from crime," Dempsey said.

Endorse System
Other law enforcement officials also heartily endorsed the police radio system not only as a means of crime prevention and detection, but as a valuable instrument in carrying out other duties of their departments.

Sheriff John Lappen said that before sets were installed it was impossible to reach a county traffic officer when he was wanted immediately, while through the radio system an officer can be contacted in any section of the county within a minute's time.

Police Chief George T. Prim cited similar experiences with his city motorcycle officers and said that now one can be summoned to the station on almost instant notice through making a broadcast.

An important step in spreading out the radio network in Outagamie county was taken by the police radio committee last year equipping several municipalities with receiving sets. A total of $1,313.91 was spent for this purpose in addition to the $1,920.64 for services as part of the 4-county hook-up.

Outagamie county is connected with Waupaca, Winneago, and Fond du Lac counties in the system and each county pays a proportionate share of the expense of the system.

Set Placements
Appleton is equipped with nine receiving sets, one at the police station, five on motorcycles and three on squad cars. The sheriff's department has a set in the office and two on cars. County traffic police have receiving sets on five automobiles and three on motorcycles. Kaukauna has an office set and one on a motorcycle. Kimberly, Combined Locks and Little Chute police departments also have one set each.

Time and time again in the last few years the radio system has proved its value to the county, enforcement officials stated. When a wanted person is found to have left the county, a call is put out over Station WAKE and in a few minutes the call can be repeated over systems that cover the entire state.

Stolen cars have been recovered within a few minutes after their descriptions were broadcast, and the thieves taken into custody, records at the sheriff's and police departments show.

Lost persons have been located through the facilities of the system. Persons who have gone on trips and are wanted home in case of emergency have been located with a saving of hours of time. The radio has become a necessity to law enforcement officials in maintaining efficient departments, Dempsey said.

The stones are decorated with pieces of silver and gold paper, odd pieces of colored glass, chormium plated pieces of automobile bumpers and colored light bulbs.

Buying, Remodeling of Homes Is Heaviest In Many Years

Kimberly—The building program in the village this year is exceeding that of other years with new homes going up in all parts of the village. Real estate dealers and contractors report that the buying of new homes and remodeling of others is the heaviest in many years.

About two years ago a home was built on First and Willow streets which was followed later by the construction of two more homes on that street. Every lot in that block is now sold with prospective buyers anxious to build homes soon.

Leo Schomper, Little Chute, who has his home well underway in that block, expects to have it completed soon.

In 1927 the first home was built on E. Walnut street and during the 10 years that followed, homes were built on every lot on that side of the street which included homes in the entire block on Second and Third street, off of Walnut. Among those recently moving into new homes are Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Gossens, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Gunder, and Mr. and Mrs. John Jansen.

The Holy Name court of the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters, will hold its regular meeting at the clubhouse at 8 o'clock Thursday evening. After the business session, cards will be played and refreshments served.

The village board will meet Friday evening at which time the board will consider the bids they received a week ago for the construction of a pump house at the new well.

Intuition of Woman Upheld In This Case

BY ELY CULBERTSON

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: To experienced and talented players my question is undoubtedly so simple that it is self-evident, but to us, not so. I think a discussion of the problem involved would be very enlightening.

"I am the one in an otherwise brilliant, not to say spectacular (the others all are men) foursome, and am tolerated only because I am usually harmless. At last night's game both sides were vulnerable. We had 40 on game and our opponents had 90. Then this hand dealt:

"I was South. My partner dealt and opened with two spades. East overcalled with three hearts. At this point I did not know whether my partner's bid was forcing or merely to score. Knowing his style, I suspected the latter, so decided to pass and await developments. West passed and North said three spades. East passed. I did likewise, and West now bid four hearts. There were two more passes, and I doubled. The contract was set five, 1,400 points.

"My opponents were highly indignant, in fact, were fit to be tied. They both said I had no right to pass when I held such a strong hand; that it was unethical and 'dirty bridge' to set the opponents when we should have bid and made a game. They declared that the sole purpose of bridge is to score rubbers and not to lie in wait for the opponents' ill advised bids. To all of which I meekly replied that in this game one sometimes has to decide which is more beneficial to one's side, the rubber or a penalty. I was shocked down. I suppose I might have sent out a warning to my opponents and doubled the three heart bid which I was reasonably sure of setting, but that didn't seem any more like my theory of getting a rubber than the one I was now playing. As it was, we were both brilliant men, excellent players and very skilled dealers, just trying to talk me out of a good thing—Mrs. J. C. New Jersey.

The above letter has made me very unhappy, as anything is bound to do that irreparably wounds my sex pride. My deep humiliation is not lightened by the suspicion that my feminine correspondent is not nearly as naive as her demure words suggest, but is gently pulling the legs of North and the despair of all mere men, unerringly sensed what was going on. Perhaps her own three and one-half honor tricks, plus a vulnerable overall from East, acted as a material guide. But this is aside from the issue, which is purely ethical and philosophical.

The men, we are told, set up the thesis that it is "dirty bridge" to set the opponents when one could have bid and made game of one's own, elaborating this with the contention that the sole purpose of bridge is to score rubbers.

"Gentlemen, gentlemen! You may be, as your de facto emulous proclivities, brilliant men, excellent players, and very skilled dealers, but I strongly suggest that you inquire a little more closely into the objective of a bridge game. This is very simple: to score all the points possible. Nothing more, nothing less. If you can induce your opponents, through any measure short of feeding them liquor or dope, to make a bad bid and, having done so, can double and ruin them, more power to you!

I may come as a surprise, but I do assure you that bridge is a game and a contest, not a Boy Scout drill.

Criticizes Wife Who Talks About Her Husband's Faults

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—Won't you please say something through your column to the wives who are continually belittling their husbands? So many foolish women do that without seeming to realize that they can take no surer way of killing their husbands' love for them and of making their husbands the failures, they reproach them of being. I have two couples of the effect of a wife's attitude toward her husband in my own family. My daughter married very young, a boy about her own age who was making $12 a week. She had many hardships to undergo, but never once has any one ever heard her complain or speak of her husband in any way but the most complimentary manner. She was always praising him, always boosting him, and the result is that he has gone up the ladder by leaps and bounds. My son married a woman who took exactly the opposite view with her husband. She has never done anything but whine and cry and bemoan the hardships of her lot, and proclaim from the house-tops that he has no business faculty and can't make money like other men. The result is that he is discouraged and brokenhearted and is slacking down. Yet to start with, he had much more ability and a better chance than my daughter's husband. But one wife made her husband and the other one ruined hers.

DOROTHY DIX

Answer:
If women had one hundredth part of the intelligence that they think they have, a wife would bite her tongue off before she said one thing in disparagement of her husband to even her own mother. Yet so far from keeping silent about their husbands' faults and foibles, weaknesses and shortcomings, they are the favorite topics of conversation where two or three women are gathered together.

They seem to have no conception that in thus blithely dragging out their family skeletons and putting it through its paces that they are not only committing an act of gross disloyalty, but also doing themselves, as well as their husbands and their children, an irreparable wrong. For to a large extent that they dream of women write their husbands' price-tags and we take a man pretty much at his wife's valuation. Nor is this unreasonable. We naturally conclude that the woman who is married to a man and who knows him as no body else can, has a better line on him than we can possibly get. So when Mrs. Smith tells us what a wonderful business man or doctor or dentist or whatnot her husband is, we believe her. And we also believe her when she tells us that her husband is lacking in industry and energy and has no initiative or judgment.

Certainly it would seem that such being the case, the stupidest woman alive would know it would be to her advantage to try to sell her husband to the general public; that it was suicidal to run down her own wares. But she doesn't. It is a common thing to hear a wife complaining that she can't have a new automobile because her husband won't have the faculty for making money that some men have. Or she is lamenting that her husband is an old stick-in-the-mud that she can never get to try a new thing that the only thing he really thinks about is his golf. Or that he has such a terrible disposition that nobody can get along with him. Then she wonders why he doesn't succeed. It never crosses her mind that she has killed his chances by making people believe that he is lazy and incompetent and disagreeable.

It is equally fatal for a wife to kill the husband's belief in himself. He can only do as much as he thinks he can do and when his wife says his self-confidence is his downfall, it is often said that there is a woman behind the door of every man's success, and that woman is an inflationist who keeps him believing that he can do whatever he sets his mind to do and that she is backing him to win out every time.

A man can't fail if he has a wife behind him who believes in him. No matter how many bumps he gets, he always comes back. But the wife who belittles her husband and makes him believe that there is nothing in him is licked before he starts to fight.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am 28 years old, a self-supporting divorcee with a son 7 years old. Do you think I should be denied the right of having my own home again? Just get the same of conventions? My father and mother have violent opinions about girls who live alone and no amount of effort on my part can induce

by PATRICIA LINDSAY

However debonair and casual a man may be about many things—such as arriving late and bringing guests for dinner without warning—the shows the fussiness of a born old maid when it comes to his shaving routine. His razors, his soap and his brushes are carefully chosen and how he shaves and where he shaves becomes an established custom. And no wonder, for many of them suffer daily from the uncomfortable and trying process of removing bristly hair from tender skin. But once the shave is finished, alas, they give no thought to the care of the abused skin, other than to slap on some stinging after-shave lotion.

Whether men like the idea or not, claims a noted beauty authority, they could very well take a lesson on skin care from wives or sisters. For their abused skin needs protection and soothing just as does the complexion of the lady in their homes.

For instance, this beauty authority has discovered that many men have been buying a tonic skin lotion to use after shaving instead of one with a high alcoholic content which is drying and irritating. Such a liquid astringent is delightful for cooling and soothing, and it closes the pores which have been opened by shaving.

Creams Used Also
If a man's skin is dry and irritated easily, he may well use the same measures that milady uses to correct a parched complexion! She finds that a rich lubricating cream softens her skin; and is easily smoothed on with a few gentle massage strokes and disappears into the skin texture. Thus her face is protected from the sun and wind which causes a fine skin to become rough or red. Creams of this type are especially mixed to care for a specific skin problem and a man is making a wise purchase in buying one of them.

For Shiny Nose Too
Believe it or not, many a man is annoyed by a shiny nose. Not on his favorite lady but on himself. Persistent though, they may be in washing it constantly it will shine with a high polish and look twice as large as it actually is. Powder, unless it is as dark as his complexion, is quite out of the question, but if he had a liquid at hand which insures an enviable dull finish throughout the day he would have no more trouble.

Yes, our modern men, even the most Spartan, are changing their scoffing at cosmetics to admiration. Many find that the "stiff" women put on their faces and take off again, just what they need for their own skin comfort. And hats to those who use them.

Miss Lindsay will help any man to correct his skin problem if he will write and enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope bearing a three-cent stamp. Write her in care of the Post-Crescent.

the education of people who are more extroverted.

A man who works with objects or materials which cannot talk back, develops the habit of ignoring his environment at times. If Alonzo day-dreams for a few minutes, his ledger sheets remain passively waiting for him to return to them.

But a salesman or teacher cannot dream and hope their customers or pupils will be passively waiting. No, the extroverted worker must keep his attention upon his social surroundings and watch people.

Introverted Boy Friends
The extroverted person must learn the etiquette and social sales talk necessary to get along successfully with people. The introvert is often blind to such social niceties.

He may tell a girl he loves her, but he fails to realize that modern society has decreed what might properly be termed a "lover's ensemble." It consists of more than a blunty stated "I love you."

It involves girlish compliments regarding the girl's complexion and hair, or her white teeth and graceful ankles. It includes a certain amount of thoughtfulness regarding birthdays and Christmas, or a corsage of flowers for appropriate occasions, a box of chocolates, or even a poetical greeting card.

It demands a certain social "front" before her friends and some little gallantries such as holding her coat, opening the door ahead of her, tucking her into the car before going around to slide behind the wheel.

True, many men discard some of these gallantries after the wedding has been consummated, but the tactful man at least knows about them and can put them into action on special occasions.

Test Your Boy Friend
Alonzo wasn't deliberately being selfish or thoughtless. He simply had never thought about himself as others view him. This failure to see ourselves as others view us is typical of the introvert.

In order to give a man a psychological blueprint for effective courtship, I recently interviewed 1,187 girls regarding the things they liked and disliked in their boy friends. It is a very illuminating and a beautifully revealing feminine viewpoint.

The average girl fails to look at things in the same light as her girl friends. For your own copy of this TEST FOR YOUR BOY FRIEND, follow the instructions at the end of this column. Every man ought to have a copy and every girl should analyze her sweetheart by this rating scale before she agrees to marriage.

Dr. Crane will give personal attention to questions of Psychological problems. Write him, in care of Appleton Post-Crescent, enclosing a 3-cent stamp, and a self-addressed and a dime to cover printing and typing costs. Letters and readers' names are never published.

THE HOME GARDENER
by EDWIN H. PERKINS

Few flower lovers would feel that their home was complete in winter unless one or more of the windows contained potted plants. Rapidly forgoing to the front as a choice plant for window decoration is the small-leaved begonia which is called a "wax" plant in many sections of the country. While small-leaved begonias do not resist neglect, they seem to suffer but little under mismanagement. They grow nicely and flower beautifully when they receive ordinary care.

It is not unusual to find small-leaved begonias in use as bedding plants outdoors in formal arrangements. Set out as rooted cuttings in late May, they have by this time grown into large plants capable of filling a four-inch or larger pot. After several years' experience trying out various sizes for window-sill culture, it is my opinion that best results come from starting plants at about this time. The start is made by clipping stems of small-leaved begonias into two or three inch sections with little regard for the part of the plant they are taken from.

Answer: Of course she thanks him! Always thank everybody, anywhere, for any act of courtesy.

Telling the Truth About Your Child Brings the Best Results

BY ANGELO PATRI

When you want your child to get the help he needs from the professional people who are prepared to assist him, tell the truth about the child. That is the first step in securing the right care for him. If the teacher or the doctor or dentist or clergyman start work on a false understanding it is safe to say that the work won't take. Begin right.

This is especially important when entering a child, of whatever age or condition, in a school. Tell the person in charge the truth about the child. Don't falsify his age. In the first place the falsehood will not alter the fact, and often the child's age is an indication of his ability to begin work, or carry work, and if the teacher has the wrong idea only the child suffers for it. Don't falsify a child's birth record or come late some day to trouble you. Birth records are used many times in a lifetime and it is wise to have them accurate, say for passport use, or military service. Even from a practical point alone the truth serves best. And it helps children more than any lie can ever be forced to do.

When you are trying to get help for a backward child tell the whole story. Answer the questions asked you as truthfully as you can. Hiding the facts means hindering the doctor and the teacher. When they begin work with the child they soon verify your story and if it is false they must begin again. Time is wasted, and along with the time something as valuable, the faith and the respect of those whose help you enlisted.

Telling a teacher that a child has always been truthful, honest, brave and responsive, when your very reason for taking him to the teacher is his directly opposite behavior, does not serve at all. The child will soon tell his own tale in his behavior, the teacher will understand and begin to work against his weaknesses and toward his strength. The untruth is useless and costly.

Think it is very wrong to tell outsiders the faults or weaknesses of children, to gossip about them at any time. But it is quite as wrong to hide those defects when seeking help for the children. Tell the truth to those whose duty it is to cure them, but conceal them from unhelpful strangers. Don't talk about them even in the family. Exaggerate the faults, but don't accept it. If you talk about it as something settled and real, you help fix it upon the child. Set about getting help and screen the child who needs it.

What is one to say to the child himself? As little as possible about his trouble. He must face it squarely. He must know that he fails in behavior or work, and at the same time he must know that with help, mostly from his own strong desire to improve, he can do better.

He cannot be told he is a success because that would deny the truth. He cannot be told that he is a failure because that would be confirming his error. He can be told that he is in need of strength for this purpose, and shown how to get it.

He can be trained to hope, to wish for success, to work, under direction, to get it.

The first step always is for the parent to tell the truth as far as he knows it to those he depends upon for help.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

some backward struck me from behind."

"You don't even know who tied you up?" pursued Tacks.

"I'm telling you I don't," thundered Richard Craftonbury. "But, dammit, I'll find out."

He gazed sweepingly over his minions as perceived that there was an absence of "Dipsang here?" he inquired challengingly.

There were no opinions as to this. Richard Craftonbury fumed. "Bah!" he said. "Nobody knows anything. A parcel of fools." He arranged himself at the head of the company. "Well, come on. I'm going to correct this out."

They proceeded back to the house. Arriving in the hall, Richard Craftonbury delivered an edict. "I'm going up to see Dipsang," he announced.

He started up the stairs, then wheeled suddenly upon his followers.

"Well, dammit," he growled, "you don't all have to come. What are you thinking this is the Easter parade?" His fiery eyes darted selectively over his cohorts. "You, Matherton, I'll want you. And you, Jonathan, you'd better come. And—" he pointed suddenly at Packy of those charms he had become sensible even while tumbling outside the smokehouse—"you come too. As for the rest of you, go and play cards or something."

The elect stood forth. The discarded canaille faded back to the living room. Richard Craftonbury swept his arm in a charge-Chester-charger movement. They ascended the stairs.

Mr. Chiseler Jennings watched in fascinated horror as his trousers floated out into the night. It was a stunning finishing blow, like a quick forward pass that snatches victory with the whistle at the timekeeper's lips. It completely unmanned him. He dropped his pursuers, Mrs. Dipsang and sank weakly into a chair.

"Woman," he said reproachfully, "that was an unworthy act." Mrs. Dipsang, panting but victorious, resumed her seat.

"If you'd behaved like I told you to," she said, "I wouldn't have done it."

Disappointment and chagrin moved the Chiseler to dip into his store of quotation.

"You," he said, pointing an accusing finger at her, "have robbed me of that which not enriches you and makes me poor, indeed."

"How's that?" said Mrs. Dipsang. "Poor? Well, don't you worry. I"—she smirked slightly—"I have enough for us both. I—I've always been a saving woman."

The Chiseler almost jumped out of his gale underpants.

"What do you mean?" he ejaculated.

"I mean," said Mrs. Dipsang portentously, "that Fate has decreed that we—er—that events shall take a certain course."

The Chiseler's quick mind grasped her meaning. For a moment he stared at her unbelievably. So this middle-aged loony had fallen a victim to his masculine charms, eh? Well, that was a hot one. Still, there was one advantage in it. But for the fact that she was attracted to him, she would unquestionably have aroused the house. And while he deplored the delay that had prevented him from ransacking the place, he thought it just possible that he might yet escape to join his confederates below. He was certain that by now the deed had been done. In all probability Coletti was standing guard over young Harkness in the

BY ANNE ADAMS

Uptown, downtown and all around the house, goes this very chic shirwaister styled to slim the matronly figure. Pattern 3211 is designed by Anne Adams, who has made its flattering, double-breasted style even more fashionable by running scallops down to the waist. The back crosses the shoulders to form a trim front yoke, with soft fullness below. You can make the front skirt panel on a straight grain, but if you choose a checked cotton or rayon use it on the bias for slimming lines. There are three choices of sleeves: puffed, flared or long and full. The collar, becoming in fresh contrast, is either pointed or extended into a dainty touch.

Pattern 3211 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 4 1/2 yards 35 inch fabric and 2 yards yardage.

smokehouse, wondering what to do next. If only he had instructed Coletti to put Harkness in the car and hurry back to the city! But how could he possibly have foreseen the events that had led to his imprisonment by a woman who, he felt certain, was off her trolley?

Only Too Clear
Get out of this he must. But how? And, spur his intellect as he would, the answer to the question evaded him. For many minutes he racked the noted Jennings' cerebrum. Then, all of a sudden, he started bolt upright.

"My heavens!" he exclaimed. "What was that?"

He remembered out in the night a stanton show had soiled. It was immediately succeeded by another and still another until a kind of erratic symphony, notable for volume if not for sweetness, was pouring in at Mrs. Dipsang's window. The Chiseler, hand behind his ear, made out the word "help" repeated often and with a mandatory twist on it. And to his agile mind it was only too clear what had happened. In some stupid manner, no doubt, Coletti had fumbled the ball. That voice would be the voice of Van Harkness, soliciting help. A wave of disappointment swept over the Chiseler. He felt like a financier who, crouched over an adverse ticker, watches his fortune roll irretrievably away from him.

"We must investigate this," he cried, springing to his feet. "Someone is in distress."

Mrs. Dipsang remained calmly in her chair.

"There are enough of them downstairs to investigate it," she pointed out.

"No, no," said the Chiseler, agitatedly. "I must be present. My poor Lydia may be involved."

"You'd better sit down again," said Mrs. Dipsang. "A fine figure you'd cut running around downstairs without your pants. Sit down."

The Chiseler obeyed with bad grace. He had but one hope now. That was that the hue and cry, which would go up presently,

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking waste out of the blood. Most people pass out 3 pints a day of about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or severe passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with the kidneys or bladder.

If the 15 miles of filter tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. This causes rheumatism, backache, rheumatic pains, aching joints, and many other troubles.

Don't wait. Ask your druggist for Doan's Backache Kidney Pills. They give backache relief in 48 hours. Most people pass out 3 pints a day of about 3 pounds of waste.

would not extend to Mrs. Dipsang's apartment.

Minutes passed. There was a commotion below. The Chiseler sat on the edge of his chair, fuming impotently. A lull supplanted the commotion. Then, after what seemed an interminable time, sounds issued from the lower section of the house. He heard an irritated voice raised in expostulation. Next footsteps, which to the Chiseler's guilty ears seemed to indicate the approach of nothing short of a regiment of marines, sounded in the hallway outside Mrs. Dipsang's door.

For one wild moment the Chiseler toyed with the idea of flight. Immediately, however, he discarded it. Flight would seal his guilt beyond question and he doubted if he could have escaped, anyway. For another equally wild moment he entertained the notion of sliding eel-like under the bed or diving into a closet. But his great brain ruled against these measures as impractical. Nothing, it told him, smacks of sin more than a gentleman surprised sojourning beneath a bed or lying concealed in a closet. No, he would brazen this thing out. His original story was perfectly sound, in view of Mrs. Dipsang's undeniable craziness and the fact that he could count on the quick mind of Dorothy South to back him up instantly. But then, like manna from the skies, a brilliant, if dangerous, inspiration came to him.

Judge Dooms Woman, Then Promises Mercy

London — A few seconds after she heard her death sentence pronounced, Mrs. Margaret Macauley of Liverpool, found guilty of murdering her three-year-old son, was told "you will live."

After pronouncing the sentence his first since he was elevated to the bench in October, 1938, Judge Stable, K.C., removed the black cap and said to the condemned woman:

"Do not be alarmed. The jury have added a very strong recommendation to mercy, and that will be forwarded to the Home Secretary at once. It may be endorsed by myself and you may take it as a matter of absolute certainty that you will be reprieved, and that your case will receive the most sympathetic attention."

Mrs. Macauley was found on the

Kaukauna Pair Is Married in Catholic Rite

MISS Hattie Weyenberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Weyenberg, route 1, Kaukauna, became the bride of George T. Fox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Fox, route 2, Kaukauna, in a ceremony performed at 8:30 this morning at St. Joseph's church by the Rev. Father Alfred, O. M. Cap. The bride had four bridesmaids, her niece, Miss Jane Weyenberg, acting as maid of honor, and her sister, Miss Frances Weyenberg, her cousin, Miss Georgine Stoop, and Miss Dorothy De Leeuw, Kaukauna, as bridesmaids. Clifford Kortz, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man.

About 70 guests attended the wedding dinner this noon at the home of the bride's parents, and approximately 100 will attend a wedding supper at the same place tonight. The couple will be honored at a dance at the Nitingale later in the evening.

Mr. Fox and his bride will go to California on their wedding trip, returning in about a month to make their home in Kaukauna.

7 Junk Dealers Get Permits to Operate in City

city ordinance on licenses which says junk dealers must operate in the heavy manufacturing district. He said the council "ought to live up to the ordinance."

A move to refer the licenses back to the committee, died without a vote when Alderman Vanderheyden objected: "Why refer them back? We've investigated them all. We've got to make our living too, you know, and you can't do that up here; I found that out."

Attorney Talks
Abel Sigman, attorney representing the dealers, asked the council to grant all the licenses explaining that those who have not moved, can't afford to buy property in other sections of the city. He maintained "it takes the whole family to make a living in the junk business and the dealers are robbed blind if they're not watching all the time."

He said the peddlers are necessary to clear away paper, rags and scrap metals that accumulate. "Of course," he said, "it's up to the dealer to cooperate with the city and his neighbors."

Alderman Keller opposed granting licenses to those not operating in the heavy manufacturing district and advised the council to live up to the ordinance.

"Maybe some of the junk dealers will have to move because, after all, the neighbors have some rights too," he said.

Some Old Argument
Mayor Goodland said, "I've been hearing these same arguments for 12 years and we never get any place. The dealers promise to keep their yards clean and they do, when it's license time. But a week from today, the yards will be in the same condition they always are."

Several property owners also spoke against granting licenses to dealers in residential districts and a petition protesting against the dealers, was filed at the meeting.

The request of the village of Belle Heights for water service was referred back to the water committee for further study. The committee recommended that the request be denied but opposition in the council prevented a vote.

J. J. Plank, chairman of the water commission, told the council that servicing water to communities outside the city "is a ticklish job."

"If you serve one eventually you will have to serve others all of which may lead to complications in the payment of bills and in furnishing water," he said.

Water Condition Bad
"The condition of the water in the Fox river this summer is the worst in the history of the water plant and the cost of chemicals for treatment is constantly rising," he continued. "We anticipate changes in the plant and settling basins this winter that will involve removal of the municipal swimming pool."

Plank quoted assessment figures on undeveloped land in Appleton and told the council that when these lands are developed and begin to use water the plant might be taxed beyond its capacity. He said the city now receives $21,282 in taxes from undeveloped land while the anticipated total revenue from the Belle Heights connection would be about $1,500.

Alderman Thompson said it would be inconsistent to refuse the village water after signing a contract to allow it to use city sewerage facilities. "What good are sewers without water?" he asked.

Alderman Knuijt said the village can get water by drilling wells. The motion to refer the problem back to the committee was carried.

Deny Zoning Change
A request to change the east side of Richmond street from Atlantic street to Beach street from the residential to the local business district was denied by the council. Taxpayers living in that block opposed the change. A move to defer was killed 11 to 7.

The low bid of the Charles A. Green and Son company, Appleton on one or more carloads of tar for street purposes was accepted by the council. Green's bid is $10.34 per gallon. The contract to sandblast and paint the under structure of the Memorial drive bridge was awarded to the Wendlandt company, Appleton. The job will be done on a time material basis and may be terminated at the discretion of the street and bridge committee.

To Hire Operator
Mayor Goodland reminded the council that a telephone operator for the city hall must be employed before Monday, when city officials will begin operation in the remodelled building. The employment of a girl was referred to the finance committee which was scheduled to meet this afternoon.

A committee to make arrangements for Appleton day at the Waupaca County fair, Aug. 25, was appointed by the mayor and includes Aldermen DeLain, Wein, Kauf, Rehfeldt, Doerflinger and Feaver. A block of seats will be reserved for Appleton officials and their wives.

The city attorney was instructed to investigate the possibility of establishing a police court in Appleton to collect $1 parking fines without court costs.

Mayor Goodland said "it's an outrage to force citizens to pay $3.95 for over parking five or ten minutes."

The contract with the C. R. Meyer Construction company, Oshkosh, for dredging in Lutz park lagoon was approved by the council. The work started last Monday.

The council ordered water mains installed on Alice street from Union to Lave streets and on Lave street from Alice to Arnold streets.

Grant Permit
Mrs. Caroline Yentz was granted a permit by the council to remodel a house at 539 N. Richmond street into three apartments.

Aldermen adopted an ordinance permitting beauty parlors to operate in the residential district under special permits from the council. The ordinance will become effective after publication.

A letter from the Buchholz Sanitary district accepting the rates for sewerage service set up by the city was referred to the board of public works for consideration.

A request from Edgar Schommer, funeral director, to change the former Hearstone property from the residential district to the local business district was referred to the plans commission for study.

The council voted to request the Sons of the American Legion Drum and Bugle corps to play and maneuver at the Labor day picnic.

The council granted a license to operate a tavern at 303 N. Appleton street to Jake Skall and George Schwendener. A class A beer permit was granted to Kenneth J. Schmitzer, 605 N. Superior street, and a tavern permit was given to George Hogreiver, in behalf of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks at 129 S. Appleton street.

For a new flavor to veal or lamb chops, soak a clove of garlic for several hours in a half a cup of French dressing. Pour it into a shallow dish, and dip in 6 chops. Broil or bake. No additional seasonings will be needed.

Plywood Housing Firm Is Formed By Appleton Men

Prepared Materials Will Be Used in Home Construction

A new housing firm, the Fox River Valley Housing company and the first of its kind in Wisconsin, is being formed by three Appleton men.

The business of the company will be to promote, sell and build homes using pre-fabricated plywood materials which will be furnished by the American Plywood company, New London.

The firm will be incorporated soon by J. Bon Davis, A. James Lytle, Jr., and Oliver C. Smith with offices at 112 W. College avenue.

The idea is patented by Contemporary Homes, N. Y., and the New London firm is authorized to prepare the sections of plywood materials.

The Appleton company, Davis said, is building a plywood home in Milwaukee and expects to begin work on another in Appleton next week. The home will be built on Clark street just off Parkway boulevard.

The company plans to erect residences which will sell for from $2,500 to $10,000 using plywood sections with the conventional exterior of siding, brick or stone. Local builders and union labor will be employed, Davis said.

Docka Purchases Home On N. Appleton Street

Thoralf Docka has purchased a house and part of a lot at 1832 N. Appleton street from Arthur Muenster. The new owner will move into the home the latter part of this month. George Bruch has purchased a house and lot on W. Harris street from the John Pekel estate. Bruch does not plan to live in the home. The real estate transfers have been filed with Stephen Peeters, Outagamie county register of deeds. The following also has been filed:

Carl M. Zschaechnner to Edwin G. Bartz, part of a lot in the old Fifth ward, Appleton.

Ventriloquist Gives Program for Kiwanians

Francis Speel, 301 N. State street, an amateur ventriloquist, entertained members of the Appleton Kiwanis club following a luncheon meeting at the Conway hotel Wednesday afternoon. His act is entitled, "Dummy, Dummy, Who's the Dummy?" Bob Neller, formerly of Appleton and who has climbed to the top of the ladder as a ventriloquist, was a guest at the luncheon. Neller is scheduled to appear at the Waupaca County fair.

Knockout to Jaw Saves Patrolman From Blaze

Cleveland, O.—The quick thinking of Patrolman Charles Kolesar probably saved the life of his mate, Patrolman Clarence Smith during a raid on a marijuana den.

A gas flame ignited Smith's alcohol-saturated clothing after a woman tenant had hurled a bottle of alcohol at him. Kolesar smashed him on the jaw and knocked him out, preventing him from running away wildly.

He dragged Smith in an adjoining bedroom and smothered the flames with a mattress.

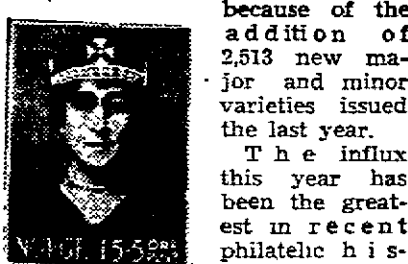

The WORLD of STAMPS

A few of the animals inhabiting the jungles and veldts of the Belgian Congo are depicted on a new semi-postal set issued to raise funds for Belgian Congo's national park. Huge birds of the grasslands are pictured on a reddish-brown 1 franc plus 1; a gazelle is shown on a red 1.25 plus 1.25; two chimpanzees appear on the purple stamp shown here; two crocodiles are pictured on a green 4.50 plus 4.50; and a stately lion is depicted on a brown 5 plus 5. Side panels show native designs. Toton poles border the gazelle and lion issues.

Prolific Year When the Standard Postage Stamp Catalogue appears late this year, it will be bulkiest ever because of the addition of 2,513 new major and minor varieties issued the last year.

The influx this year has been the greatest in recent philatelic history. Russia led in the number of issues with 79; Switzerland was second with 64; new-born Slovakia issued 58; and France, 54. The United States ranked eighth with 46. Newcomers during the year are Slovakia, Carpatho-Ukraine and Katay. Fifty-three governments—30 of them under British rule—did not issue a single stamp.

One of the world's most conservative stamp-issuers, Norway, has just released a new stamp in four values bearing a clearly detailed portrait of Queen Maude.

Now Is Good Time For Physical Check Of School Children

Now is the time, before a new school term begins, to check up on Jack's eyes and Mary Lou's teeth, Dr. F. J. Huberty, city physician, reminded parents today.

Public schools in Appleton are scheduled to open Sept. 11 and very often physical defects are the cause of a youngster's inability to stay with his class in his studies, the physician said.

Defective eyes are one of the chief causes of otherwise normal pupils falling behind in their studies. A pair of glasses or adjusted lenses might make a new and enthusiastic pupil of Jack. Some physical maladjustment, not readily noticed by parents, also might be the cause of poor grades in school. A visit to the family physician before school opens may prevent a loss of school time later. Teeth also should be checked regularly, Dr. Huberty said.

Committee to Study School Boiler Bids

Boiler bids for the Outagamie County Rural Normal school, Kaukauna, will be considered by the buildings and grounds committee of the county board at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon at the courthouse. The board's committee will meet at 9 o'clock Friday morning.

Mayor Backs Move To Turn Vote on Fox-Wolf Control

Goodland in Delegation Urging Reconsideration of Bill

Mayor John Goodland, Jr., was one of a delegation of Fox River valley officials who visited Rubin Peterson, Berlin, Republican floor leader in the state assembly, to urge reconsideration of the plan to authorize Wolf and Fox river level control by construction of dams on the upper Wolf.

Peterson enthusiastically supported the move for reconsideration in the assembly yesterday. The legislators reconsidered their earlier decision to kill the bill and it probably will come up in the lower house Friday morning. The next action is engrossment, a preliminary to the final passage.

Leading the opposition was Mark S. Catlin, Jr., Appleton, the only representative of the Wolf and Fox valleys to oppose the plan. Catlin's second move to reject it was killed 47 to 35 Wednesday morning.

Catlin ridiculed the support of the municipal officials in the Fox valley for the project in a heated debate. The bill involves construction of a reservoir at Lily to store water during flood seasons to be released through the Fox and Wolf rivers when it is needed.

With Mayor Goodland on his visit to Peterson over the weekend were mayors, village presidents and other officials from Fond du Lac, Neenah, Menasha, Kaukauna, De Pere, Combined Locks and Kimberly.

Unsettled Skies Tonight, Friday

Dark Clouds Over City Today; Thermometer At 81 Degrees

Probable showers tonight and unsettled weather Friday was the outlook for people of Appleton and vicinity, according to the weatherman's forecast issued from Milwaukee today.

The clear weather that has prevailed during the week ended today, the sunny day, was broken by the sky above the city and shutting off the sun. There was little change in temperature, however, the thermometer atop the Post-Crescent reading 81 degrees at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

For the 24-hour period ended at 9 o'clock this morning, the highest temperature was 82, registered at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and the lowest 59, according to Wisconsin Michigan Power company charts.

Phoenix, Ariz., with 107, and Salt Lake City, with 90, were the hottest and coldest places respectively in the nation yesterday, the Associated Press reported.

Partly cloudy, local thunder showers this afternoon or tonight southwest and south central portions; foggy northwest and extreme west portions tonight.

GENERAL WEATHER
Showers and thunderstorms have occurred since yesterday morning over the central and southern Mississippi and Ohio valleys and southern states, with heavy rain falling at Dubuque, Iowa, and Atlanta, Ga. However, generally fair weather prevailed this morning over all sections of the country, except that it is unsettled over the upper lakes.

Mild weather continued this morning over most of the north central and western portions of the country, but it is warm over the southern Mississippi valley and the eastern states.

Thunderstorms are expected in this region tonight with partly cloudy and mild temperatures Friday.

Father of Lawrence President Issues an Admonition to 'Reds'

Speaking before the California American Legion convention at Oakland Tuesday, Major General David Prescott Barrows, father of President Thomas N. Barrows of Lawrence college, warned communists:

"If you start any rough stuff such as you did in Europe (in the Spanish civil war) we shall kill you first."

Immense applause from the 1,500 delegates greeted his statement. He is regional commander of the national guard and a former president of the University of California.

He continued: "Testimony brought out at the Harry Bridges deportation hearing has shown that the one secular civilian group standing in the way of communists is the American Legion."

State Is Given Continuance in Milk Price Case

William Rohan, Defendant, Does Not Oppose Postponement

A continuance until "not later than Sept. 8" of the state department of agriculture and markets case against William Rohan, Kaukauna farmer accused of violating the state milk price fixing law, was granted this morning by Judge Thomas H. Ryan in municipal court.

The state department requested the delay, asserting it wanted to conduct an adverse examination of Rohan and to inspect his farm. Rohan, former assemblyman, is charged with selling milk for 5 cents a quart in the Appleton district where the regulated market price is 10 cents. Rohan has admitted being technically engaged as a dealer and selling below the market price, but denies the right of the state to set the price of farm products sold on his farm. Rohan also denies the state's charge that he sold insanitary milk.

Stating that he is not opposed to a delay of his case, Rohan this morning declared he wants it to come to trial so that he can "show the people just what the state department is doing."

Assembly Takes Up Trades Code Begins Work on Senate Measure for Practice Standards

Madison—The assembly today began work on a measure setting up trades practice standards for cleaners and dyers, show rebuilders, barbers and beauticians, and adjourned without taking action.

A similar bill was passed and sent to the senate weeks ago, after provisions regulating prices, hours, and wages had been deleted. The senate bill revived these features. Today, however, the house adopted an amendment by Majority Leader Peterson (R) Berlin, who led the fight against the house bill, requiring a referendum in counties under 30,000 population and communities under 5,000 before codes are installed.

Under the senate bill a majority in any one trade could set up a code in any area. The assembly also changed the bill to provide the trades practice examiner need not be appointed under civil service regulations. It reversed its stand, however, on the price feature. It rejected an amendment by George Vest (D) Oconto, to outlaw price-fixing, and another to require that 75 per cent of trade must approve codes in an area not covered by the Peterson amendment.

McDowell (R) Soldiers Grove, moved reconsideration of the vote on the price amendment, laying the bill over for two days.

Iowa Governor Arranges Things For Civil War Vet

Des Moines, Ia.—Marvin T. Grattan, 91-year-old veteran of the Civil war, plans to go east this weekend for a reunion of his buddies—thanks to the kind heart of Gov. George A. Wilson who commuted the last three months of a five-year sentence he was serving for manslaughter.

Late yesterday Grattan and his wife, 86, slipped away from the Iowa soldiers home at Marshalltown, where he has been held in technical custody for several years, and went to the governor's office.

They pleaded for a commutation that would enable them to attend the Grand Army of the Republic national encampment in Pittsburgh, Pa., next week.

After hearing the aged couple's story, Governor Wilson announced an immediate commutation for Grattan and added that he would issue a pardon to the man as soon as the necessary notices could be published.

Grattan's sentence would have expired in November. Grattan was sentenced for shooting Claude Meade, a horse trader, during a quarrel at the Decorah, Ia., fair grounds July 21, 1933.

HAY FEVER SUFFERERS BEWARE
Shown above is a sight to make almost any hay fever sufferer shudder and especially those who are allergic to ragweed. For that's just what it is, a patch of ragweed right in Appleton's downtown business section on Johnson street. In the picture, holding his nose (in a hay fever sufferer that part of the body which will be plenty sore before the first frost) is Walter Reetz, 218 E. College avenue, who consented to pose near the patch.

The hay fever season starts about Aug. 15 and continues until the first frost, Dr. F. J. Huberty, city physician, said today. The disease in this area is caused mainly by ragweed, but may be caused by other pollen bearing plants such as goldenrod, Dr. Huberty said. Doctors sometimes cure the disease by building up the patient's immunity with a special vaccine prepared for that particular type of hay fever. Patients sometimes develop hay fever tolerance to a high degree under treatment, the physician said. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Group Medicine Plan Will Be Tried in Rock County

Janesville—The Rock County Medical society moved today to place in immediate operation a trial plan for providing medical care on a prepayment basis.

Under the plan approved by the society after several months of preliminary work by its trustees, subscribers will make monthly payments to the society, and in return will receive medical and surgical care from their family physicians.

The society announced that 75 per cent of its 81 members had agreed to participate. For the experimental period, the society will accept a maximum of 500 units (a unit may be a single person, couple or family)—in groups of 10 or more—with these monthly premium rates: single person, $1.50; couple, $2; family, $3.

Thus, subscribers will be assured that their medical care—in the case of a family—will not exceed $36 a year. They will be eligible to receive all services customarily rendered by local physicians—operations, preventive service, eye tests, vaccinations and immunizations as well as general sickness care.

Subscribers will be selected only on a group basis, without any physical examination. The only restriction is that the groups must be not less than 10, who are "employed and bound together as a group for other than health and insurance purposes," and at least 50 per cent of the group must be covered.

The plan was drawn on the principle of free choice of physician, the society said, with an absence of any profit motive for physicians or promoters, and no limitations by any third party.

Trial plans of slightly different nature now are in operation in Douglas county and at Greendale, federal housing community in Milwaukee county, with the co-operation of county medical societies there.

State Air Tour Visits Oshkosh

64 Persons are Making Circuit in 26 Planes

Oshkosh—The third annual Wisconsin air tour brought 64 persons here in 26 planes today, and leaders of the venture said four more planes would be added here, with six to eight passengers.

The visitors were guests at a noon luncheon of the Oshkosh Lions club, after which they will fly to Fond du Lac and then to Wisconsin Rapids to spend the night.

They spent last night at Clintonville, after visiting Stevens Point, Madison, Janesville and Lake Delton yesterday.

E. S. Hensley and C. E. Cox, officials of the civil aeronautics authority at Chicago, joined the tour last night. They said George Vest of Washington, air safety supervisor of the authority, and Forrest Longway of the Chicago office would join up at Wisconsin Rapids.

J. B. King of Milwaukee, tour chairman, said the aviators have had no forced landings or mechanical trouble of any kind, thus maintaining the record of previous years.

John Siewert, 14, of Wisconsin Rapids, is the youngest passenger on the tour.

Can't Say Nobody Gave Him Warning

Milwaukee—Three years of listening to the tales of woe incident to his job as almoner clerk in circuit court have convinced Benedict Hergeden, 29, he could make a success of marriage.

So, he'll live up to his first name Saturday by marrying Miss Magdeleine Weiss, 21, of Thiensville.

"After listening to the woes of divorced men and women for three years," philosophized Hergeden, "I am familiar with all of the pitfalls of married life, and I know mine will be a success."

Soil Conserving Took Rapid Steps During Past Year

Regional Head Says Mississippi Valley Program Promising

Milwaukee—R. H. Musser, regional conservator for the soil conservation service, asserted in his annual report today that the fiscal year ended June 30 had been one of "great progress" in safeguarding the soil wealth of the upper Mississippi region.

Stressing the need for more rapid spread of the "wise land use idea" he warned, however, that erosion had already removed from one-fourth to three-fourths of the original topsoil over 84,038,100 acres, or 41.6 per cent of the total area of the region.

A total of 552 per cent of the total area seriously is affected by erosion, he stated.

Musser—who heads service activities in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Illinois, Iowa and Missouri—reported that "on the asset side of the ledger we find 12,021 farmers operating 1,881,918 acres in the region demonstrating erosion control programs that permit soil use with a minimum waste."

Riches Region

He added: "The upper Mississippi region is richer in soil resources than any other area of similar extent in the world. In the five states are found 63.6 per cent of the nation's grade 1 or excellent farm land and 25 per cent of the grade 2 or very good land while the region covers only 10.6 per cent of the country's total acreage."

His report, made to headquarters at Washington, stated that the soil conservation service, state colleges and farmers in the region were demonstrating a co-ordinated land use program in 19 project areas, four operating soil conservation districts organized by farmers, 75 CCC camps assigned to the service, and 319 extension demonstration farms.

Projects located in Wisconsin are at Coon Valley, Fennimore and Independence. In western Wisconsin 13 CCC camps are working for the service, Musser said.

Head of Treasury Asks Cooperation In Revising Taxes

Washington—John W. Hanes, acting secretary of the treasury, asked business, farm and labor leaders today to cooperate in an "effort to work out a tax revision program which will further improve the laws relating to individual and corporation taxes."

At his press conference Hanes made public the text of a letter to officials in industry, labor, commerce, banking and agriculture. Hanes asked those to whom he wrote whether they were interested in getting their tax views before congress and advised them that he would like to arrange for them preliminary hearings before treasury officials.

He said he desired to assemble the information in order to have a record of "public tax opinion" for the subcommittees of the house ways and means committee when it meets on Nov. 1.

This subcommittee is to make a study of the entire tax structure.

Fordham Seismologist Notes Moderate Quake

New York—Father J. J. Lynch, Fordham university seismologist, said today his instruments recorded a "moderate" earthquake yesterday at a distance of about 2,300 miles. The first shock was recorded at 11:23:27 a. m. and the second at 11:24:54. Father Lynch said he could not determine the direction of the quake from New York.

Heat Exhaustion Named Cause of Baby's Death

Milwaukee—Although the temperature yesterday rose no higher than 73, the death of 6-months old Robert Stevenson was attributed to heat exhaustion.

NAMED TO POST

Milwaukee—Federal Judge F. Ryan Duffy today announced the appointment of Thomas F. Millane, above, as referee in bankruptcy.

Millane, a Milwaukee attorney, will serve for two years beginning Sept. 1. He will succeed Fred C. Westphal, who has served since 1927.

Millane managed Duffy's campaign for reelection to the United States senate in 1938. Duffy, defeated by Alexander Wiley, Chippewa Falls Republican, was appointed to the federal bench following the resignation of the late F. A. Geiger.

have been taken from the former Czechoslovak border fortifications.

So-called "Spanish horsemen" or concrete tri-pronged tank obstacles are also being placed on the border.

Heavy military trucks, residents say, are in service around the outskirts of this city, also originally Czechoslovak.

A Polish customs agent near the town of Knurow said he had been given no information as to why the border here had been closed.

"Yesterday afternoon," he said, "our border police came up here and told me that until further orders the border between here and Schoenwald should remain closed."

PRIVATE AFFAIR

Berlin—Guarded hints were thrown out today that Germany has left the door open to Poland for direct negotiations over Danzig, but that a bigger issue than mere unconditional return of the Free City to Germany was at stake.

The press indicated Germany would prefer direct dealings with Poland, and denied reports another "Munich" settlement, involving other powers, was in prospect.

Circles close to the government said they considered the time ripe for settlement of issues involving the fate of more than 1,000,000 national living in Polish regions bordering on Germany.

These well informed sources said the viewpoint rapidly was gaining ground that Danzig was not enough and that Germany should increase its demands.

Private Affair

Semi-official and controlled press comment was to the effect it was nobody's business but Germany's and Poland's to solve the problem of Danzig and Pomerania—the strip of land known as the Polish Corridor which separates German East Prussia from Germany proper.

Circles close to the foreign office and newspaper articles conveyed the growing impression Fuehrer Adolf Hitler's previous proposal to Poland for a combined highway and railway track across the corridor no longer would meet Germany's requirements.

Despite military precautions, the opinion prevailed among observers that a Danzig-Pomerania solution would be a bloodless one.

Record Preparations

Germany stood ready for any emergency. Preparedness measures that may go into history as the most stupendous of their kind were being completed.

Western fortifications facing France have been pronounced impregnable by Hitler and Air Minister Hermann Goering.

The region along the Moravian-Polish border in the south was being fortified swiftly.

NAZI RELEASED

Warsaw—Polish authorities announced today that Rudolf Wiesner, one of the leaders of the German minority in Poland, has been released from custody.

It was understood, however, that he must be "at the disposal of the Polish attorney general."

Wiesner was "detained" as part of a drive against alleged anti-Polish activity in which a large number of Germans of Polish citizenship and several German citizens were arrested Wednesday.

It was understood Wiesner was detained only a few hours for questioning.

Convicts Abduct Guard, Tourists In Wild Flight

2 Illinois Felons Escape While Working in Quarry Near Prison

Chicago—Chicago and northern Illinois were searched today for two convicts who overpowered a prison guard and abducted him and two Ohio tourists in their subsequent flight.

The convicts, described as model prisoners by Warden Joseph E. Ragen, were John McGuire, 36, and Charles Emmerson, 37. McGuire was a trusty at the penitentiary at Joliet from which they escaped yesterday.

The felons were at work in a quarry outside the prison walls when they made the dash for freedom. After overpowering the guard, William E. Frew, 47, and taking his pistol, the convicts forced him into a prison truck and drove into Joliet.

There the convicts abandoned the truck and their victim, and drove off in a car which they had forced Robert Lindquist, Jr., to surrender. Near Chicago Heights they boarded the automobile of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Rice, an elderly couple returning to their Bucyrus, O., home after a vacation in South Dakota.

Part At Chicago

McGuire left the car in Chicago. Emmerson then forced Rice at the point of a pistol to drive through the city of Belvidere, about 60 miles northwest. The wild ride ended on the main street of Belvidere when Rice car collided with another machine. Emmerson fled on foot after taking $8 and a coat from Rice.

Rice, who has been suffering from a heart ailment, collapsed over the wheel after the accident. He and his wife were moved to a hospital suffering from shock.

McGuire was serving a one to 14 year sentence for manslaughter, Emmerson one to 20 for automobile theft. The former was from Lake county and Emmerson was from Winnebago county (Ill.).

"It was a foolish escape for both men," said Warden Ragen. "McGuire would have been eligible for parole in four months and Emmerson in two years. Both had been model prisoners."

Mrs. Rice told investigators the convicts stopped to rob a filling station attendant during the ride. The police said no report of such a robbery had been received.

Employment Office To Be Closed Saturday To Move Equipment

The Wisconsin State Employment Service office will be closed Saturday while the office equipment is being moved to the new city hall, the remodeled Lincoln school building, Fred Gehrke, manager, said today.

The employment office will be open for interviews again Monday morning in the new building. The offices are on the second floor on the Appleton street side of the building.

It Is Said--

That the cook at the City home will scrutinize with care every knight of the road who calls at the home in the future for a handout. It is reported that recently the cook noted that several shabbily dressed individuals who asked for a meal looked familiar. Upon questioning they broke down and confessed that they were not tramps but section hand workers who preferred the warm handouts to the cold meals they carried in their dinner pails. They admitted switching clothes so that they seemed to be different persons after their first successful call.

Foreign observers regarded detention of the middle-aged German as evidence that Poland is prepared to take firm steps against Nazi leaders within her borders lest relative passivity bring a repetition of Czechoslovakia's 1939 experience with the Sudeten area, where Konrad Henlein was German minority leaders.

Roach to Direct Enforcement of Cigaret Measure

Generally Agreed This Tax Will be Part of Revenue Bill

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Out of the confusion and conflicting reports on the administration's tax problem observers today hit upon one definite word—that the thousands of men and women in Wisconsin who use cigarettes during the next two years at least are going to pay two cents a pack more for the sake of the habit.

Although practically all the other tax suggestions put forth by the administration and by individual legislators in recent weeks have provoked storms of protest, there is universal agreement that whatever is the nature of the solution to the revenue problem worked out, the cigarette tax will be included.

Plans have already been made by state officials for the enforcement of the tax law when it is passed, and for the collection of the lush revenues which such a levy will produce. One of the most satisfactory aspects of the tax, according to administration spokesmen, is that it will be relatively less expensive to administer than almost any levy now on the books.

It is estimated that the tax can be administered at the cost of one per cent or less of the total proceeds. That can be compared with the liquor and beverage tax, for example, which costs about 34 per cent to enforce.

Enforcement Up to Roach
The reason is that the new cigarette levy will be put in the hands of existing enforcers, investigators and auditors in the beverage tax division headed by John W. Roach. Liquor and beer agents of the division will make inspections and audits of cigarette retailers and wholesalers on their liquor inspection trips, thus cutting overhead, it has been pointed out.

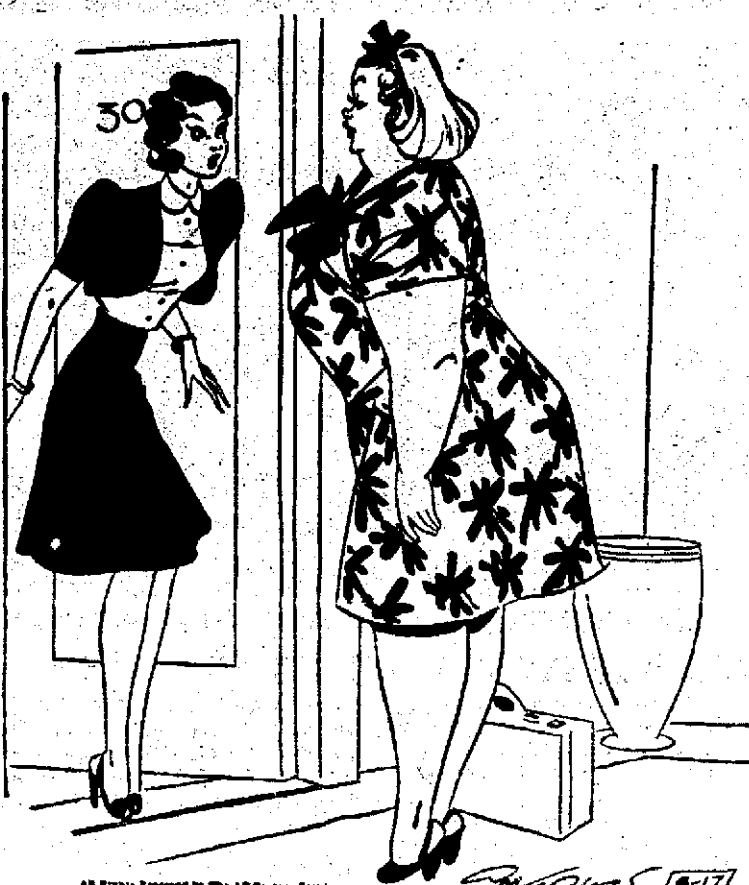

An important problem is foreseen, however, in bootlegging, since only Iowa of the neighboring states now impose taxes on cigarettes. Another problem will arise out of mail order evasion of the tax law. It is expected that a safeguard will be provided, however, in the provision that no person may possess more than a nominal number of untaxed cigarettes at one time.

Importers, common carriers, wholesalers, and manufacturers will be required to purchase permits from the state treasurer under the tax law. Wholesalers will pay the tax through stamps or meters to be issued by the state treasurer.

The two cent a package tax is conservatively estimated to raise $3,000,000 a year. Privately state officials expect the yield to be about $3,500,000. They point to Iowa, where a two cent tax yielded last year almost $2,800,000, although that state has half a million less population than Wisconsin. Moreover, the state doesn't enjoy Wisconsin's considerable tourist trade, and is more predominantly rural.

"Huh? You want to borrow MY bathing suit?"

As Ernie Pyle Sees America

Grand Canyon, Ariz. (South Rim)—By diligent spying and listening, I have found out what most people say when they see the Grand Canyon for the first time.

As for me, I didn't say anything. In fact, I wasn't seeing it for the first time. My first view of the Grand Canyon was from an airplane, ten years ago.

But of course I was just a little tyke then, not even 30 years old, and I don't remember much about it. So today, you might say, was really my first modern view of Grand Canyon, and absolutely my first one from the ground.

As we stood there on the rim, gazing at this gigantic spectacle created by nature, I knew that I should utter some profound observation for posterity. But I couldn't think of a thing.

Other people have less trouble with their tongues, however. Nearly everybody makes some kind of remark. As far as I can gather, they run about in this order:

1—"What a shock the first men who saw it must have had." (The Imaginists.)

2—"I'm afraid the Soil Erosion Service got here too late." (The Wits.)

3—"How insignificant it makes man feel." (The Philosophers.)

Must Have Given—First Man a Start
Wondering about the emotion of the first man seems to go through everybody's mind. It did mine too.

It must have given him an awful start.

If you were walking through this country on foot, you would approach the canyon through heavy forests. You wouldn't have the slightest warning, there was anything unusual ahead.

And then you'd push aside a bush, and there just as suddenly as a gunshot, you'd be looking down into the most colossal hole on this old earth. I don't see how the first man kept from falling in, just from sheer nightmarish surprise.

That first white visitor, however, was here so long ago there isn't any record of what he thought or said. And even if he said something, it was in Spanish. And unless he said "Buenos noches, Senor," which hardly seems likely, I wouldn't have understood it.

Don Lopez de Cardenas and 12 other Spaniards in Coronado's Expedition, up from Mexico, got the credit for discovering the Canyon. That was in 1540.

It was nearly 300 years later that the first Americans saw the Canyon. James O. Pattie, a beaver trapper, and his father, explored clear along the south rim in 1826.

Of all the ruins and geologic phenomena that I have seen, Grand Canyon is by far the oldest. It's so old that scientists have no idea how old. And it is so big they can't even measure its present rate of erosion, if any.

But it has been here so terribly long that it is quite likely that it looked to the Spaniards 400 years ago exactly as it does today. And if you could see it a thousand years from now, you probably couldn't pick out any change with the naked eye.

ago exactly as it does today. And if you could see it a thousand years from now, you probably couldn't pick out any change with the naked eye.

Disagree on Power to House Emotions

The American Automobile Assn. guidebook says of Grand Canyon that in its power to rouse the emotions it has no equal in the world. With that statement I am inclined to disagree. The Canyon kind of overdoes itself. Time after time I've heard visitors say, "Well, it's just too big to appreciate." And frequently I've heard them say they were more impressed with Carlsbad Caverns or Bryce Canyon Park.

It is my own feeling that the thing is too gigantic for human emotions to get hold of. You look at it, and there she is, awful beautiful and awful big, and you're just about stopped right there.

The Canyon averages about ten miles across. There are places where it is 18 miles wide. And in its very bottom, where the Colorado River runs, it is a mile deep.

There are so many hundreds of canyons within the main canyon, and so many ridges and buttes and what-not standing in that vast depression that it is only from certain points on the rim that you can even catch a glimpse of the river way off down there.

Standing on the South Rim, you can pick out a little trail way down in the canyon. If you look hard, you can see a few dark specks barely moving on the trail.

Then if you look through the telescope mounted on the wall, those specks turn out to be trail-workmen on mules. Even through the telescope you can just make them out—that's how far down it is.

There is a great hotel-lodge standing on the North Rim, 14 miles across. You cannot find it with naked eye. You can finally spot it through the telescope, if you are patient.

If you visit here has to be a short one, looking through that telescope is about the most fun of all. I don't see why the government doesn't put up half a dozen of them.

Millinery Department Gets New Decorations

New mirrors, luminaire lighting and a chrome and royal blue color scheme mark millinery department redecoration plans now nearing completion at Fustfields, 118 E. College avenue. Other equipment includes chromium stands, new display heads, dressing tables and chairs. Miss Diana Resman, Appleton, is in charge of the department.

Poor Posture Among Children Is Frequently Due to Fatigue

Madison—"Children are urged to maintain a good posture, but oftentimes actual physical defects stand in the way of good carriage." The State Medical society makes this statement in a health bulletin today.

"Mothers by the thousands are daily exhorting their children to stand up straight, and teachers are admonishing their charges to stop slumping in their seats. Many children who slump in their chairs and who habitually stand with their heads and shoulders slumped forward actually are fatigued. It may be that they are not getting enough rest to supply their needs. In other instances, examination will reveal that a child's tired demeanor is caused by enlarged adenoids, diseased tonsils or sinuses, faulty vision or poor elimination.

"There are many physical harms which may result from poor posture such as the following:

1. A relaxed, slumped posture causes crowding of many of the vital organs of the chest and abdomen, making breathing difficult, and greater effort is required to expand the lungs with air. These children are especially susceptible to colds and bronchitis.
2. In the abdominal cavity, the same crowding of the digestive and eliminative organs occurs. Digestive disturbances and constipation can be expected to follow in time. In later years, the common ailments such as colitis, hemorrhoids and gallbladder disturbances will occur.
3. Many children who have a slumped posture have bowlegs, knock knees and flat feet.

"It is not always sufficient to remove foci of infection or to provide more rest and sleep or better eating habits to achieve the desired effects of good posture. This must be done; but even after this, still more work may be ahead.

"Children with faulty habits of posture can be helped greatly by posture training. More and more attention is being paid to these problems, particularly in the larger schools. Many of the lesser faults can be managed by the corrective classes in school, if they are available, but such a program should be carried out under the supervision or in the gymnasium of a physician who is thoroughly trained and understands muscle action on the various joints.

"It is not enough for parents to scold and fret because their child will not stand up straight. Specialized training, often shoe corrections and occasionally surgery are necessary before the goal becomes possible of achievement."

A GOOD NAME

is rather to be chosen than great riches! Thus spoke a philosopher who summarized the experience of thousands of years.

STILL TRUE TODAY

American inventive and business genius have wrought many improvements in our home life, as compared with that of our fathers and grandfathers. But although the electric refrigerator is an advance over the cool milk-house . . . the hot-water heater over the old kitchen stove . . . modern life has evolved no improvement over the moral backlog of our fathers. A good name is still more valuable than wealth . . . and it is the only name that will stand the test of advertising.

Tidball May Cause Changes in Roster Of U. S. Cup Squad

Teamed With Mako, He Looks Formidable in Doubles Play

BROOKLINE, Mass. —(P)—The unpredictable Jack Tidball of Los Angeles, who has caused many an official headache with his upset wins in the past, may force a reshuffling of the U. S. Davis cup deck today when he teams with high-powered Gene Mako against Australia's reputedly invincible Adrian Quist and Jack Bromwich in a national doubles tennis quarter-final at Longwood.

Since Quist and Bromwich apparently were much more concerned over their Davis cup assignments than U. S. titles, they were not expected to take any risks to gain a win here this week.

Thus, Mako, rated as the nation's outstanding doubles player, appeared to need only steady support from Tidball who has received scant consideration from the Davis cup bosses, to triumph over the Australians if they deem it wise strategy to hold back. If such happens, Tidball's Davis cup hopes should soar high.

The only other men's match on today's program was the quarter-final between Jack Crawford and Hammy Hopman, also of Australia, and Charles Hare of England, and Ladislav Hecht, the former Czechoslovakian Davis cupper.

Yesterday the two top domestic teams, Frank Parker of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Don McNeill of Oklahoma City and Bobby Riggs and Elwood Cooke, the Wimbledon champs, qualified for the semi-finals in impressive fashion. Riggs and Cooke eliminated such capable rivals as Robert Peacock and Douglas Imhoff, the intercollegiate titlists, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4, while the Parker-McNeill team overcame Russell Bobbitt of Atlanta and Frank Guernsey of Coral Gables, Fla., 6-4, 10-8, 6-2.

CARDS SLUG PIRATES

Pittsburgh —(P)—The St. Louis Cardinals slugged their way to a double triumph yesterday over the skidding Pittsburgh Pirates, winning the first, 4-3, with two homers by Terry Moore and the second, 3-0, through triples by Enos Slaughter and Johnny Mize behind the three hit pitching of William Henry McGee.

By winning both ends, while the Cincinnati Reds were losing, the Cards gained a game and a half on the league leaders.

Bears to Hold First Scrimmage Tomorrow

Delafield —(P)—Light practice sessions will culminate tomorrow morning in the first scrimmage of the season for the Chicago Bears of the National Professional Football league, Coach George Halas announced.

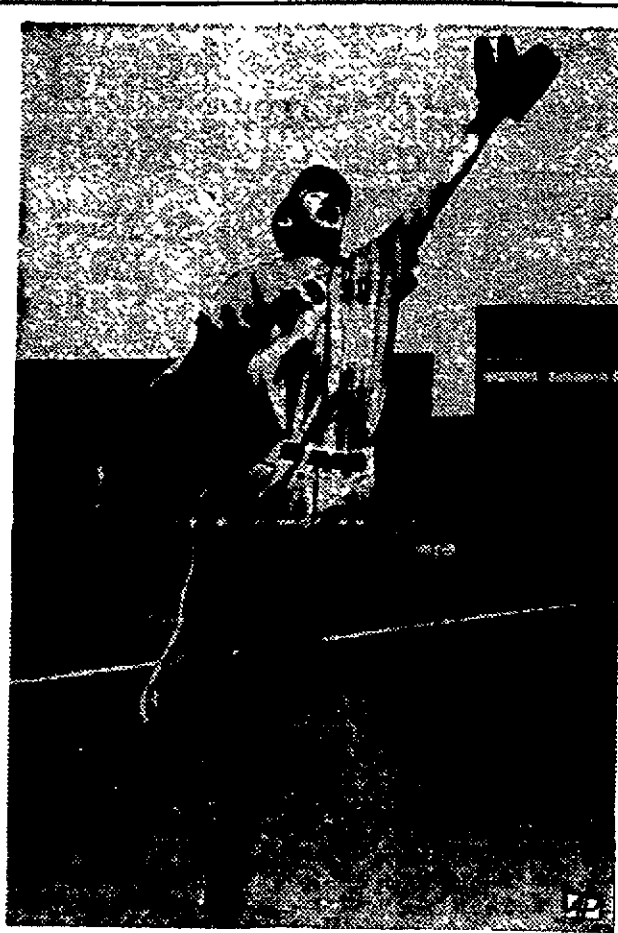

Yesterday's workout was confined to a signal drill.

Duluth, Minn. —(P)—The Chicago Cardinals National Football league team, training at the Duluth Teachers' college here, will play an intra-squad game for a charity fund in nearby Superior, Wis., training site of the champion New York Giants, Friday night, Sept. 1, Coach Ernie Nevers announced today.

"Thumping Teddy" Williams Is a Rookie, One of Major's Most Colorful Figures

Hard-hitting Ted Williams ...

... shows promise as fielder

BY E. HARRY CROCKETT

OSTON —(P)—They call him "Thumping" Teddy. "Titanic" Ted, and "Whizzer" Williams.

and he refers to himself as just plain Ted Williams, or "The Kid," which is just what he is—a skinny, gangling, lovable kid, already one of the most colorful figures in big league baseball and probably due to become one of the all-time greats of the game.

This six-foot, three inch, 16-pound rookie, who leads the American league in runs batted in, stands among the leading home run slayers, bats better than 300 and is every inch a ball player. And he's only 20 years old.

He's eager, ambitious, courteous, confident and practically bubbling over with schoolboy enthusiasm. Only a few months out of the minor league class, he's hailed as a "boy wonder," but is admittedly still starry-eyed over the new wonders of a young major league career.

Ted had his lanky form curled up in a spare rubbing table in the Red Sox clubhouse when his interviewer was introduced by the great James "Double X" Foy.

Flashy Dresser

Notable as somewhat erratic in his choice of clothes, he was given his first big game in the season by Manager Joe Cronin—round Ted wore light tan sandals of worn leather, pleated, dark brown trousers and a canary yellow polo shirt.

"I like sports clothes and good clothes," he said, "but I can't wear 'em well because I'm too stringy, too skinny."

Just a short time before, the Red Sox first baseman had whispered his candid opinion of Williams.

"You know," Foy had said, "a player can improve his fielding, a lot but he's either a hitter, or he's not a hitter. Ted's a great, natural hitter. He's got power, good eyes and everything he needs. Some day he'll be one of the greatest hitters in the game. He likes to have fun and sometimes lets his temper get out of hand, but he's a great kid and has a wonderful future."

Ted seemed just as enthusiastic about helping his interviewer as he is about hitting homers.

"Gosh, I hope I can give you what you want," he said, "but this business of being interviewed is kind of tough. If I talk too much you'll think I'm a punk and if I don't say enough, you'll think I'm dumb. Well, anyway, I'll tell you whatever you want to know, if I can."

Confident Kid

That's the kind of a boy Ted Williams is. Always ready to oblige, he's so enthusiastic he actually begins to sputter as new thoughts go racing through his handsome head. He's supremely confident, noisily demonstrative at times, but always just a big kid.

He resents being called a "busher."—"Cause I'm not a bushier any more, I'm a big league ball player"—and denies emphatically that he's the "screwball" he's been painted.

Has he found big league pitching better, or harder to hit, than the minor league variety on which he thrived before joining the Red Sox this year?

"I think the youthful slugger thoughtfully, 'It's really not much different. Of course, there are more pitchers in the majors who can throw them a little harder than minor leaguers, but it's not much different."

"I think these major league pitchers are a lot smarter and have much better control than most of those in the minors, but after all, it's the same kind of a baseball, isn't it?"

Does Ted consider himself a super ballplayer, or just a young man on the good side of a lucky break?

"Gee, Mister, that's kind of putting me on the spot isn't it? Natu-

Defensive Work Shines As Pirates Scrimmage

Two Rivers —(P)—Scrimmaging for 60 minutes, the Pittsburgh Pirates showed an abundance of defensive strength yesterday as they prepared for the coming National Professional Football league campaign.

The arrival of Sam Boyd, end from Baylor U., boosted the squad roster to 28 men. However, end Bernie Scherer, halfback Clarence Tompkinson and quarterback Rink Bond were forced to the sidelines with minor injuries.

The only touchdown came on two well-directed passes from halfback Dick Nardo to Hugh McCullough and Ed Karp.

Toledo Rallies in Eighth to Defeat Milwaukee by 5-4

Fleming Hits Home Run With One on; Hill Gets Three Hits

TOLEDO, O. —(P)—The Toledo Mud Hens came from behind in the eighth inning last night to score a 5 to 4 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers in the final game of the series.

With the score 4 to 3 against them, the Mud Hens sewed up the game on Les Fleming's home run with Joe Dwyer on base.

Brewer infielder Johnny Hill, leading association hitter, boosted his average with three hits in four attempts.

The game:

Milwaukee . . . 021 010 000—4 13 1

Toledo . . . 100 100 12x—5 8 0

Kimball and Just; McLaughlin, F. Johnson (8) and Mackie.

Columbus upset the league-leading Kansas City Blues in a 11-inning game, 3 to 2. Nate Andrews, ordered to join the St. Louis Cards within the next few days, outpitched three Kansas City hurlers and won behind Herman Frank's two homers and a timely single with the bases loaded. It was Andrews' 17th win.

At Indianapolis, the Indians out-hit Minneapolis, but had 11 men left on bases and were shut out by Elong Hogsett, losing 4 to 0.

St. Paul clubbed out 15 hits, including homers by Gil English and George Stumpf, to defeat Louisville, 8 to 5.

Shamrock Softballers Beat Icecakes by 7-3

Kimberly —(P)—The Shamrock softballers of the Twilight league won over Busch's Icecakes 7 to 3 at the ball park. Jim Fleweger of the winners hit a homer with one on in the fourth frame. Paul Van Dyke, on the mound for the winners, allowed four hits while J. Gaffney, pitching for the Icecakes, was nipped for six hits. Bill Harke of the Icecaps got a homer and a triple in three times up.

Fox's His Idol

"You know," he said, "a lot of people ask me who I want to pattern myself after. Well, when it comes to hitting a baseball, Jim is the one man I want to follow, but even if he never hit a baseball, he'd still be the one I'd like to pattern myself after as a man."

Those words seemed to come right from young Ted's heart.

"Jimmy Foy is one real guy. He's always giving me friendly advice."

Ted got right down to business when he was asked to give a personal account of what he thinks of his own batting ability.

"Now I'm not perfect by any means," he started, "Left handed pitchers give me plenty of trouble and some of the smart slow ball pitchers are still hard for me to figure out."

"But let me tell you one thing," he fairly shouted as his thoughts obviously ran a lap ahead of his vocal organs. "I've never seen a pitcher yet that could put a fast ball by me. They can work me out, or maybe fool me, but I can hit anybody's fast one and I'm beginning to wise up to the teasers too."

"The fact that I know I can hit the fast ones and that I have plenty of power gives me a lot of confidence. I'm not the best hitter in the world—nowhere near as good as Jimmy Foy—but I really believe that some day I'll be an outstanding batter."

BY taking a twin bill from Two Rivers while Green Bay was putting the skids under Clintonville, Seymour moved to the top perch in the Northern State league pennant chase over the weekend.

Seymour and the Truckers clash Thursday night at Clintonville and it should be a battle of the second half. The Clinis haven't won a game from Bill Row's clan all season but there is always a chance for a different verdict.

Manitowoc has bounced back in the closing lap thanks to a couple of victories over the New London Bulldogs. The Ships still have five games to go and they will probably be troublesome right down to the finish.

Between pitching trouble and unexpected batting weakness, New London has skidded fast the past several weeks. The Londoners were murdering the ball but the attack melted fast like ice in the summer heat.

Starting Sunday's conflict against Manitowoc, New London found the benders of "Butcher Boy" Kohls very much to their liking and got five runs in the first frame but the Ships came fast later to win the ball game, 10-8.

Wilda, Manitowoc right fielder is a thorn in the side of New London. His batting average climbs fast whenever the Bulldogs cross his path. In the fray a week ago at New London, Wilda homered twice to sew up the diamond tilt.

One of the largest crowds of the year at Clintonville saw the Bays push Len Goerlinger's hirings out of first place by a 5-1 score. Four former Truckers performed with the Green Sox and they were all smiles at the end of the game.

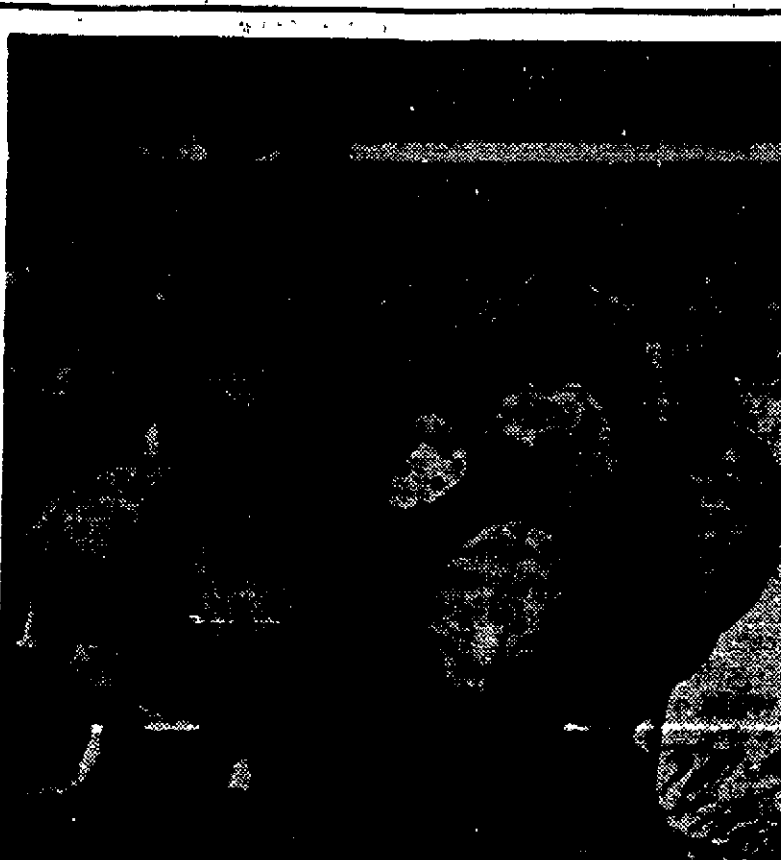

These same clubs battled last Wednesday at Green Bay and the Clinis copped the verdict 3-2 in 10 innings despite the fact that Lefty Joe Peteka, Sox slasher, sat down a baker's dozen on strikes and only allowed five hits.

Rex Fontana must have put the old Iowa town on Tommy Tomlin when he tripled in ninth frame of the game at Clintonville. The Bays swat Smith and Clint pitcher played ball together some years back in the Hawkeye state.

Dame Rumbur has it that several of the A. A. scouts are keeping their eyes on Ty Steel, Clintonville second sacker. The youngster is fielding like a Billy Herman besides clouting the pill at a close to 400 clip.

It was pretty cool at Two Rivers after Seymour had walked off with both ends of the twin bill. One Duke Bridges, the Sox columnist, was heard to remark that "More strikes than Johnny Blood's Pittsburghers spent Sunday amongst us."

In the first game of the double-header, Dick Weisgerber bused Lucy Alberts in a pitching duel by

The letter came from London, where Prof. Atkinson, traveling abroad that year, had fled after central Europe became too dangerous.

An editorial in the Appleton Daily Post pointed to the ineffectuality of the international court of arbitration at the Hague in settling disputes between nations and warned that the only protection of any country was a strong army and navy to defend itself.

New York — After 10 years of planning and construction, the Whitney Memorial Wing of the American Museum of Natural History has opened with reportedly the largest collection of birds in the world.

The eight-story building, housing 750,000 birds, was built at a cost of $1,500,000 contributed by the late Harry Payne Whitney and New York City.

For 20 years Whitney South Seas expeditions, which have traveled an estimated 50,000 miles and visited some 350 islands, have collected more than 30,000 birds forming parts of the exhibits.

OPENING AT APPLETON SATURDAY

Yes, it's Bob Burns in the grandest of all his roles, as a lawyer-philosopher, pleading with Gene Lockhart, as "Mr. Tapley, industrialist," to be fair with his workers and settle their disputes in the good old American way. The scene is from the new drama, "OUR LEADING CITIZEN," which will be presented locally starting Saturday at the Appleton Theatre.

"Career" will be the companion feature, introducing Allee Eden and John Archer. Jesse L. Lasky's big talent search discoveries. Heading the cast are Anne Shirley and Edward Ellis.

Farm Fires Numerous During
Threshing Season of Year

Numerous farm fires in the Appleton area and elsewhere in the state during the threshing season result from a number of causes, and the best way to prevent them is for the farmer to be extra cautious and observe preventative measures, an Appleton fire insurance official stated today.

Spontaneous combustion is one of the reasons, and routine checks of the barns are a good preventative measure as grain usually sweats for several weeks after it is placed in the barn, the official said. There is more shock threshing in the southern part of the state and as a result there are fewer threshing fires reported in that area than in the northern part of the state where much threshing is done in the barns, it was pointed out.

The official advised farmers to keep a couple of barrels of water or fire extinguishers on hand during threshing time so that in case of fire it can be extinguished before gaining too much headway.

Another preventative measure is to be sure there are no rocks in the left over chaff, as several fires have been caused by sparks from the rocks going through the threshing machine, the official said.

Smoking should not be permitted in the threshing area, farmers were warned.

Egypt's Ore Deposits

Calro — Egypt's iron ore deposits, contained in an area of about 500 square miles in the Aswan province, may prove to be the richest in the world, according to a report by Saba Habashi Bey, Egyptian minister of commerce and industry.

The report recalls that the ancient Egyptians discovered iron mines in this region. They concealed the entrance to the workings, and in time sand accumulated to fill up the openings.

Member of Fourth Generation Will Enter Same School
Royalton — When the Hobart Rural school in this township opens Aug. 23 for its eighty-second year, William Stillman, one of the pupils of Stillman to attend that school, and the fifth generation to live on the Stillman Creek farm. His great, great grand parents the late Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Stillman lived in that territory where it was organized as the Hobart school district in 1857. The next in line was the late Henry Stillman and wife Kate Seigworth Stillman to whom eight children were born; the oldest William and wife Ida Wilkie Stillman were the third generation to own the farm, they too had eight children. William is deceased and the oldest son Edgar and wife Mary Ruth Cannon Stillman R. N. are the present operators of the farm and parents of William.
Here's a tea treat—spread butter on round crackers, top them with marshmallows, indent the tops of each and fill with raspberry jam or orange marmalade. Brown and serve warm.

Machine Could Shave Fuzzy Tennis Balls
Bowling Green, Ky. —(P)—Two Bowling Green orchardists have a solution for the current controversy over the new tennis ball, which Australian players contend shows shows fuzz quickly and becomes too heavy.
The two — Roger Porter and E. D. Hudgens — have peach "defuzzers" in operation on their farms.
The machines, through a system of brushes, turn out peaches minus the undesirable "whiskers" at the rate of a bushel a minute.

Son of Actor Killed By Pistol; Shooting Called 'Unavoidable'

Ogunquit, Me.—Police Chief J. Hartley Littlefield recorded as an "unavoidable" accident today the fatal shooting of Sebastian Braggiotti, 14, member of a family long prominent theatrically and in Boston social circles.

The chief said he contemplated no action against Charles Winer, also 14, of Lawrence, Mass., who fired a pistol bullet into young Braggiotti's heart while they were shooting at frogs in a pond here last night.

The victim was the son of Actor Stiano Braggiotti and his wife, summer residents here, and the nephew of the once-famed dancers, the Braggiotti sisters.

They were Berthe, now dead, Gloria, and Francesca, who danced with Ruth St. Denis and Ted Shawn and who were members of Boston's Vincent club and Junior League. Francesca married John Davis Lodge, brother of U. S. Senator Henry Cabot Lodge and a lawyer who turned film actor.

Labor Group Rejects 3rd Term Endorsement

New York.—The New York state federation of labor left today any question of endorsing President Roosevelt for a third term up to its parent, the American Federation of Labor.

The state organization, which claims membership of 1,100,000, rejected seven resolutions seeking such endorsement at its annual convention yesterday. The AFL tradition against endorsing presidential candidates was broken only in 1924 when it endorsed the late Senator Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin.

Select Waupaca County Entrants In State Events

50 Boys Compete for Right to Enter Junior Judging Contests

Clintonville — Judging contests to select winners who will represent Waupaca county at the Wisconsin state fair were held Wednesday in Clintonville under the direction of Victor Quick, county agricultural agent. About 50 boys participated, representing F. F. A. chapters from New London, Weyauwega, Waupaca, Manawa, Marion and Clintonville. Winners of first and second places in each contest will receive a free trip to the state fair, which opens at Milwaukee Saturday, Aug. 19. There they will compete with boys from other counties in the junior judging contests. Those receiving places here were:

Poultry judging — Gilbert Roepke, Clintonville, first; Carl Tank, New London, second; cattle judging — Burton Hintz, Clintonville, first; Gordon Carey, Manawa, second; crops judging — Donald Steege, Clintonville, first; Gilbert Roepke, Clintonville, second.

The boys met at the high school Wednesday morning and were taken to nearby farms for the judging events. The students were accompanied here by their agriculture teachers, who are L. M. Warner, New London; Arthur Kurtz, Weyauwega; Harold Porter, Waupaca; Vernon Wells, Marion; and E. A. Hutchinson, Clintonville.

The Clintonville chapter Future Farmers of America was selected to exhibit the treating of seed grain at a booth at the Wisconsin state fair. In charge of the booth will be Lester Fischer and Donald Steege of the local agriculture class and their instructor, E. A. Hutchinson.

An outstanding honor was recently conferred upon Louis Mueller of the Clintonville F. F. A. Chapter, when he received the degree of "American Farmer". He was one of the four Wisconsin boys to receive the high rank. Mueller, a graduate of Clintonville high school with the class of 1939, holds the office of state secretary of the Future Farmers of America and now has the degree of "State Farmer". Local candidates for the state farmer degree, which will be conferred at the state convention at Madison in October, are Edmund Schuelke and Harland Kirchner.

STARS OF HOME-MADE CARNIVAL

Leading ladies of the home-made carnival which played Wednesday afternoon on the lawn and in the garage back of the A. J. Pfankuch home, 1518 N. Drew street, were Marjorie Bruch, left, and Nancy Pfankuch, right, who appeared as an acrobatic dancer and a hula dancer, respectively. The Bruch and Pfankuch children promoted the carnival, which attracted a large group of neighborhood youngsters. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Youngsters Stage Their Own Carnival; Side Show Is Feature

It may not have been the biggest show on earth, but the carnival set up Wednesday back of the A. J. Pfankuch home, 1518 N. Drew street by the Pfankuch children and some of their neighbor friends, was a lot of fun for the youngsters in that vicinity yesterday.

To compensate for the lack of a ferris wheel and merry-go-round, there was a hula dancer, an acrobatic dancer, a wild animal and plenty of games and refreshments.

The wild animal had a way of breaking out of his cage and running helter-skelter through the crowd, but the customers, remaining level-headed, never gave way to panic. After all, the beast was only a harmless Chinese chow.

To their side-show attraction, featuring Nancita, hula dancer, and La Margarita, acrobat, the young carnival promoters pointed with pride and joy. On other than carnival days Nancita is plain Nancy Pfankuch, daughter of the A. J. Pfankuch, and La Margarita is Marjorie Bruch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Bruch, 421 E. Circle street. For some of their dances, Fae Donna Bruch played violin accompaniment, for others a phonograph had to substitute for an orchestra.

The two young dancers performed on a platform set up in the garage.

The stage curtains were old plaid blankets, and the microphone through which the master of ceremonies announced the numbers was constructed of a broomstick, a coffee can and a coffee can cover. The pieces were covered with paper and the whole actually looked like a microphone.

Robert Yohr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Yohr, 1512 N. Drew street, helped construct the stage. Stephen Pfankuch was another of the chief laborers, as well as one of the carnival's managers.

The carnival, which began at about 1:30 in the afternoon, was scheduled to last until all the prizes were gone. Prizes were such things as pencils, paper dolls and books.

Wisconsin Health

By C. A. HARPER, State Health Officer

Those two deaths were as tragic as any that occurred in Wisconsin last year, but neither of them gained the headlines.

The victims were two baby girls. They died of scurvy. Scurvy is caused by lack of vitamin C, the vitamin found chiefly in oranges and tomatoes.

Of more than 50,000 infants who were residing in our state last year, only these two were denied one of the substances vital to their survival.

It is not always an easy matter to pay for all the foods that the family needs for its health.

But these two baby girls should not have died of scurvy. Their mothers apparently did not know about the vital importance of including either orange juice or tomato juice in the baby's diet.

Even when babies have the advantage of breast-feeding, most authorities recommend adding orange or tomato juice to the diet early in infancy.

The state health department accepts the responsibility of offering information on maternal and child care to all mothers and prospective mothers in Wisconsin. The literature is always at hand, but the department does not always know where to send it.

Through the Wisconsin press the state health department appeals for the cooperation of all citizens in getting this literature into the hands of those who need it.
